

Nelson, June

June Nelson, 90, of Caseville passed away Thursday morning, April 20, 2000, at Courtney Manor. She was born June 19, 1909, in Fillion and lived in Huron County throughout her life, residing in the Caseville area since 1939. June was a graduate of Ypsilanti College of Teaching and was a country schoolteacher throughout the county from 1928 to 1960. She was an artist, a naturalist and an avid historian who has authored numerous publications and research articles including a history of the Thumb and a history of the ghost town, Port Crescent. June is survived by her brother, Lyle Nelson of Kinde; her nephew, Mike Nelson, his daughter, Melissa and her sons, Derek and Zachary, all of Bad Axe; her niece, Michele Nelson and her son, Josha, and daughter, Jennifer, all of Kinde. June was preceded in death by her parents, Henry and Nettie (Humphrey) Nelson; her brothers, Carson and Cecil Nelson; a sister-in-law, Nadine Nelson and a longtime companion, Kelly Fillion. Cremation has taken place and a memorial service will be announced and conducted at a later time. The family requests that no flowers be sent, but that any memorials be sent in June's name to the Pigeon District Library or the Huron County Historical Society.
