LEST WE FORGET WHO WE TRULY ARE

Translation: DeepL / Translation corrections, reflections, compilation by Catherine Mossman
Tiny, ON / November 19, 2025

All too often we forsake the small fact that we would not be in existence if it were not for the Creation, the Creation energy that enlivens us, and the Creation-life-energy that, among other things, stores our wisdom and knowledge as it evolves through incarnations.

Each of us, our current incarnation, that is, represent a different vantage point of learning and self-referential experiences along the unstoppable journey of our Creation-life-energy. Our material experiencing and learning is how that part-piece of Creation evolves, whereby it continues from where it left off from the previous life to the next, after resting in the

by Francisco Villate / Toronto, ON / September 29, 2025

"It's too good to be true." Does this expression sound familiar? That's what some people say when they see the Buga Sphere. It is very important to be skeptical, and even more important to investigate the evidence in order to form a well-founded opinion.

I have been studying the WCUFO photographed by Meier, which had 43 spheres. We have demonstrated with simple analysis that it appeared in two sizes: 3.5 meters (11.5 feet) and 7 meters (23 feet) in diameter. For me, the WCUFO is a craft without its outer covering, giving us clues about how it works internally. The extraterrestrial Ptaah, in contact report #442 dated February 10, 2007, gives Billy details about the WCUFO and refers to the spheres as "Swinging Wave Accumulators." Is the Buga Sphere one such Swinging Wave

A FEW THOUGHTS ABOUT PAST LIVES

by Daniel Cooper / Yukon / November 3, 2025

Within various communities, it can be very disheartening to listen to people prattling on about past lives and so forth so brazenly and with such abandon telling everyone how much they think they know about all the people they think they were in previous lives. About what they were like and what their lives were like etc.

On occasion I have had the opportunity to ask Billy regarding his experiences and whether he had any memories of being Mozart or somebody else in a previous life and he responded that no, he didn't have any particular memories of their lives. And this makes perfect sense. I doubt that even Felix Mendelssohn would feel the need to have memories of being Mozart in a previous lifetime or that it would even help him or matter to him because even though they were both musicians, they both had vastly different personalities which was also reflected in their very individual styles of music. They were each of a very different time stylistically and composed vastly different styles of music. Only in Mendelssohn's first composition at the age of 11 did he sound anything like Mozart. Then he quickly outgrew that style and moved on to compose entirely new music which fit society in his later time. He focused on his present time and his present life and on making breakthrough's for that time death-life realm.

Each of us, our current incarnation, that is, represent a different vantage point of learning and self-referential experiences along the unstoppable journey of our Creation-life-energy. Our material experiencing and learning is how that part-piece of Creation evolves, whereby it continues from where it left off from the previous life to the next, after resting in the death-life realm.

Yet, far too many of us don't want to acknowledge our origin, the why, the what-happens-next and instead, brush aside or indulge in a fantasy therein. The onslaught of propaganda and indoctrination starts as soon as we're born. If we aren't steeped in religion from the get go, we still are steeped and steered to an outward-looking direction regarding our existentiality, through the pursuance of material wants, pleasures, or pure survival as the world crashes around us and thrashes us about. All of this keeps us from recognising who we truly are. Not only who we are as a personality, but who our indwelling inner selves are, obfuscated through willful ignorance or lost in the general melee of confusion, chaos and outer distractions.

This theme of our ignorance of our own selves' raison d'être was inspired by the following passage I read and then typed out from Billy's book, yet untranslated, entitled Wenn der Mensch glücklich und zufrieden werdenwill... (If the Human Being wants to be Happy and Satisfied...) published in 2019. Unfortunately, I forgot to jot down the page it was on, and have not yet been able to find it again. Believe me, it's in this book!

Here is the translation of the quoted section, followed by the original typed out German:

"...And for a long time, the human being does not realise that he/she is nothing more and nothing less than simply a human being, who was one at birth and remains one: a human being, small, unknowing and helpless, and without the workings of the Creational laws and without the life energy of the Creation that animates him/her, he could not even take a breath. And since he/she is not yet aware of this fact and, in their knowledge-blindness, do not recognise the truth, they imagine themselves to be a deity, a power over life and death, and thus, nurture and cultivate evil, they covet wealth and prestige, wage wars, thirst for revenge, retribution and blood, allow themselves to be guided by jealousy and anger, murdering for this reason and seizing every opportunity to gain material wealth, profit and power...."

"...Und noch geraume Zeit erkennt der Mensch nicht, dass er nicht mehr und nicht weniger als einfach ein Mensch ist, der schon bei seiner Geburt einer war und bleibt: Ein Mensch, klein, unwissend und hilflos, und ohne das Wirken der schöpferischen Gesetze sowie ohne die ihn belebende Schöpfungslebensenergie er nicht einmal einen Atemzug tun könnte. Und da er diese Tatsache noch nicht kennt und in seiner Wissensblindheit die Wahrheit nicht erkennt, wähnt er sich als eine Gottheit, als Macht über Leben und Tod, und schafft so hegend und pflegend das Böse, giert nach Reichtum und Ansehen, führt Kriege, dürstet nach Rache, Vergeltung und Blut, lässt sich von Eifersucht und Wut leiten, mordet deswegen und greift bei jeder Gelegenheit nach materiellem Reichtum, nach Profit und Macht...."

Interestingly as I searched for this passage I thought I'd throw it through AI to see if it found anything and it found a very similar passage in the Goblet of the Truth, German version. It is very similar to the above quote from his 2019 book; it is truly amazing how Billy can just call this similar line of thought up again, slightly differently worded. It attests to the unwavering coherence of this teaching and Meier's undaunted nailing of the truth into words:

Goblet of the Truth (English/German), pg LXX (Deutsch) LXXI (English)

And for quite some time, you fail to recognise that you are no more and no less than at your birth: small, human, unknowing and helpless, without the influence of the creational laws and recommendations. And because you do not yet recognise this fact, you imagine yourselves to be deities, powers over life and death, and so you create, nurture, and cultivate evil, wage wars, thirst for revenge, retribution, and blood, let yourselves be guided by jealousy and rage, and seize every opportunity for power, profit, and material wealth. In doing so, you fail to realise that in your blind fury, you destroy everything around you, accepting the complete destruction of the planet and all living beings, including yourselves, and relentlessly and monstrosously exacerbating everything on the Earth through the boundless breeding of overpopulation. Thus, it can be said of you human beings of the Earth that you are dwarfs in your consciousness, your rationality, and your intellect. In contrast, however, in all of your unintellect, your irrationality, your hatred, your discord and disharmony, your urge for revenge, retribution, warmongering, and rage, and your destructive impulse, you possess the powers of a giant. And in this wise, you stride with giant steps into your existence and into the future of the Third Millennium, completely lost and unsure of which path to take, even though you have crammed yourselves with a great deal of academic knowledge that brings you no understanding of life and Creation, nor of their laws and recommendations. Thus, you do not know why you live and die at all, for the world of Creation's becoming and passing away is as alien to you as the effective creational truth itself, so that in your ignorance you only curse your lives, then whimper and flail your arms like madmen.

Und noch geraume Zeit erkennt ihr nicht, dass ihr nicht mehr und nicht weniger seid als bei eurer Geburt: Klein, ein Mensch, unwissend und hilflos ohne das Wirken der schöpferischen Gesetze und Gebote. Und da ihr diese Tatsache noch nicht erkennt, wähnt ihr euch als eine Gottheit, als Macht über Leben und Tod, und so schafft und hegt und pflegt ihr das Böse, führt Kriege, dürstet nach Rache, Vergeltung und Blut, lasst euch von Eifersucht und Wut leiten und greift bei jeder Gelegenheit nach Macht, Profit und materiellem Reichtum. Dabei merkt ihr nicht, dass ihr in blinder Wut rund um euch herum alles zerstört und die ganze Zerstörung des Planeten und aller Lebewesen in Kauf nehmt, samt eurer selbst, und wobei ihr auf der Erde unaufhaltsam und ungeheuer durch die grenzenlose Heranzüchtung der Überbevölkerung alles weiter fördert. So kann von euch Menschen der Erde gesagt werden, dass ihr in eurem Bewusstsein, in eurer Vernunft und in eurem Verstand Winzlinge seid. Gegensätzlich dazu besitzt ihr jedoch in all eurem Unverstand, in eurer Unvernunft, in eurem Hass, in eurer Unfriedlichkeit und Disharmonie sowie in eurem Drang der Rache, Vergeltung, Kriegssucht und Wut sowie in eurem Zerstörungsdrang die Kräfte eines Giganten. Und in dieser Weise schreitet ihr mit riesigen Schritten in euer Dasein und in die Zukunft des Dritten Jahrtausends hinein, wobei ihr völlig irregeht und nicht wisst, welchen Weg ihr nun wirklich beschreiten sollt, und zwar obwohl ihr euch mit vielerlei Schulwissen vollgestopft habt, das euch aber keine Erkenntnis in bezug auf das Leben und die Schöpfung sowie ihre Gesetze und Gebote bringt. So wisst ihr nicht, warum ihr überhaupt lebt und stirbt, denn die Welt des schöpferischen Werdens und Vergehens ist euch so fremd wie die effective schöpferische Wahrheit selbst, so ihr in Unkenntnis nur über euer Leben flucht, dann wieder wimmert und wie Irre mit den Armen fuchelt.

Indeed, every breath we take, every thought we make is because we are alive. And why are we alive? All too often we forsake the small fact that we would not be in existence if it were not for Creation. And that ongoing forsaking of the truth leads us further into the ill-gotten gains of our stubborn ignorance, hubris, and hunt for power and dominance. We crash around imagining ourselves to be great intellectuals, great warriors, great leaders, great in wealth, great in knowledge, when truly, we are dwarfs in our consciousness. And that is the only thing that matters.

This last quote is part of the paragraph above (preceeds it), same page in the Goblet, but it states pretty much the future we have set for ourselves now as we continue with our arrogant refusal to collectively see the truth and the reality of our asaninity.

More and more fear, poison, and hopelessness will descend upon you, human beings of the Earth, and even your children will be afflicted by them when they are hunted, sexually abused, tortured, beaten, and sold by their parents or by slave traders. Thus, fear, poison, and hopelessness will also threaten the development of consciousness for many among you when you become dull-witted and devoid of rationality. And this is not surprising, because you human beings are being increasingly driven away from the truth by false, misleading, and irresponsible religions, sects, ideologies, and philosophies. Consequently, fewer and fewer of you recognise the effective truth of the creational laws and recommendations, and therefore, these laws are being followed less and less. Thus, the transformation for the better, the good, and the best takes a long time, for only when the majority of humanity strives for it will the great transformation to correctly learn the true truth and to act accordingly occur. For now, however, you humans of Earth believe yourselves to be God and do not know that this is merely a human-invented delusion that has nothing to do with the effective all-encompassing Creation or with universal consciousness.

Immer mehr Angst, Gift und Hoffnungslosigkeit werden über euch Menschen der Erde kommen, und schon eure Kinder werden davon befallen sein, wenn sie durch die Eltern oder durch Sklavenhändler gehetzt, sexuell missbraucht, gequält, geprüft und verkauft werden. Also werden aber Angst, Gift und Hoffnungslosigkeit auch die Bewusstseinsentwicklung vieler unter euch bedrohen, so ihr stumpfsinnig und der Vernunft brach werdet. Und das ist nicht verwunderlich, weil ihr Menschen durch die falschen, irreführenden und verantwortungslosen Religionen, Sekten, Ideologien und Philosophien immer mehr von der Wahrheit weggedrängt werdet, folglich immer weniger von euch die effective Wahrheit der schöpferischen Gesetze und Gebote erkennen und diese also auch stetig weniger befolgt werden. So dauert der Wandel zum Besseren, Guten und

by Michael Uyttebroek / Tiny, ON / November 17, 2025

There are so many interesting and new thoughts to consider when reading and re-reading Contact Report #919, however this inevitably leads to many new questions.

When reflecting upon the deposited thought energies that spread/store/deposit themselves cosmos-wide, either as negative or positive thought energies/impulses, this means that these impulses are not localised. Even though thought has a limited speed/range of approximately 3 light seconds (if I remember correctly), thoughts are somehow also stored/deposited into a cosmos-wide energy-field (for lack of a better term). When Billy states cosmos-wide, are we to assume that cosmos-wide includes all 7 material belts/dimensions and all of the different space-time continuums associated with them? In order to clear this question up I asked Christian Frehner, and he replied that according to his understanding, cosmos refers to just our Dern Universe. It seems that this is related not only to our planetary storage bank but the Universal-overall-storage-block. This cosmos-wide storage is a different process than that of the Creation-life-energy which spreads itself out throughout the Creation at 10 7000 x the speed of light and which then picks up stored evolutionarily impulses via the Creation-life-energy unconscious which in turn releases these to the subconscious of the associated human being and is useful for the further evolution when processed/considered and elaborated upon by the consciously thinking human being. This process of further developing thoughts which are of an evolutionary beneficial nature result in constantly new evolutive impulses being sent out into the cosmos which are picked up by other human beings via their Creation-life-energy and in this wise, a synchronistic evolution is promoted for all.

It appears that there are different forms of interactions that the Creation-life-energy of human beings or Wesenheiten, that are capable of conscious evolution, draw upon. So for example, stored impulses deposited cosmos-wide, can be drawn upon/absorbed that are of a positive evolutive wise, while other impulses can be absorbed which have a negative outcome. All this depends on the evolutionary level of consciousness and awareness of the human being(s) concerned. In CR 919 Billy writes: "All of the thoughts rest as permanent "memories" cosmos-wide in deposited energies, which are from thoughts and impulses etc. of persons, human beings and Wesen who have long since died and that were thought days, weeks, months, years, decades or centuries or even millennia ago.

Human beings and Wesenheiten of all kinds who are able to evolve consciously perceive the cosmos-wide stored impulses of earlier human beings and Wesen through their Creation-life-energy, and these are passed on to the physical subconscious in an impulse-activating way. This receives the impulses and the consciousness begins to work with them in an evolving wise, whereby evolution or development progresses and thus the knowledge of human being becomes ever more extensive and advanced."

Accumulator? The current generation wonders if the WCUFO is real. Future generations will wonder how it works. And the Buga Sphere is giving us clues about one of the parts of the WCUFO, the ones that make it levitate and move.

WHERE AND WHEN WAS THIS SPHERE COLLECTED?

The Buga Sphere is not the only one that has been observed flying in the skies around the world. But it seems to be the first to fall to the ground, be picked up by someone, and be investigated.

Buga is a small Colombian city in the Cauca Valley, with very friendly and warm people. I have been to that city about four times. It is surrounded by mountains and nature, and is close to the Sonso Lagoon Nature Reserve and the Cauca River. On March 4, 2025, a sphere flew over Buga, approached high-voltage cables, touched one of them, and a few minutes later fell on one of the hills surrounding the city.

BUGA SPHERE

THE BUGA SPHERE...continues

That day, at least two people recorded the sphere flying over Buga on their cell phones. One of them, "María," filmed it, and in her video we can see the sphere floating in the air above the city, emitting flashes of green and red lights on its upper part. Another person, "José," who was walking with a friend in the hills of Buga, also recorded it. José is a treasure hunter, someone who searches the mountains with a metal detector looking for valuable buried objects. In José's video, we see the sphere flying, losing altitude, and slowly landing in some bushes. José and his companion ran to the spot where the sphere fell. José approached and picked it up. His friend asked if it was heavy, and José said it weighed only about two kilograms. Days later, José felt ill and went to the doctor, but fortunately recovered quickly. Months later, dry grass could still be seen where the sphere had fallen, surrounded by healthy grass. José says that for a while his fingerprints seemed to have been erased.

José took the sphere to someone he knew at the "German Company", which manufactures electronic equipment in Buga, including metal detectors like the one they had sold him. The company conducted initial analyses of the sphere. When they weighed it, they realized that it now weighed 10 kilograms. Why did its weight increase fivefold? Did the mechanism that made it levitate shut down completely?

On one side of the sphere, they found a black mark, like soot, probably caused by the electric shock. Underneath that mark, they found that a small piece of metal had come off, perhaps due to the shock. They cleaned and polished its surface. When they added water to clean it, they noticed that it evaporated, even though the sphere was cold. The water did not evaporate because of a thermal effect, but perhaps due to an ionic effect. The sphere seems to have an electrostatic charge around it. The German Company felt great pressure after making the discovery public, and decided to "get rid of it." They contacted Jaime Maussan and offered him the sphere so that he could analyze it. Jaime traveled to Colombia, obtained formal permission from the German Company, from José, and from the Colombian authorities, and took it to Mexico. Jaime Maussan states that at no time was he asked to pay money for the sphere.

THE ANALYSIS

The prestigious Universidad Autónoma de México (UNAM) agreed to conduct research on the sphere. Some results have already been published. Recently, other international researchers have carried out further analyses.

Rodolfo Garrido, UNAM Engineer

It is contradictory to see a sphere that appears to possess advanced technology, allowing it to levitate and move freely, and at the same time bears hand-carved inscriptions with unknown symbols, crescent moon figures, and triangular shapes. Could someone in the past have held it in their hands, carved it, and then the sphere continued on its way? X-rays confirm that the outer metal layer is a single piece. It has no joints, welds, screws, or rivets. It was cast in one piece around a central core that contains mysterious internal devices. Inside, among other things, a vase-shaped figure can be seen. The function of these internal mechanisms is unclear.

THE BUGA SPHERE...continues

Rodolfo's presentation. There is an internal "vase-shaped" object.

The aluminum on the surface showed very high hardness, of aerospace quality. Very strong magnets were placed near it as part of the tests, and afterward the hardness of the aluminum changed completely. In some areas, the hardness decreased significantly, to the level of kitchen aluminum foil. It is not clear why the hardness of the metal changes erratically.

The sphere produces static electricity, and when some people touch it, they feel the hairs on their arms stand on end. Instruments measured these electrical charges, which also fluctuate, as if the sphere were "alive." Reports state that sometimes the lights in the room where it is located are affected.

They analyzed how sounds can affect these electrical charges and discovered that the sphere reacts when subjected to certain sound frequencies. Interestingly, the greatest variation occurs when ancient chants are sung.

One of the greatest discoveries is the presence of optical fibers. The interior of the circular perforations in its equatorial zone was examined. Inside, engineers found optical fiber endings. A total of 52 optical fibers were initially counted, surrounded by some resin. Also, in some pores or cracks in the metal, more optical fibers were found hidden under the metal layer.

Analysis of the videos recorded in Buga indicates that there is no fraud. It is not a sphere suspended by a string attached to a drone. If it were suspended, it would not stop abruptly but would instead show a pendulum-like movement. It is not CGI, and it is not AI.

The most relevant discovery was made recently. Scientists formerly affiliated with NASA traveled to Mexico and extracted small samples of the resin surrounding the sphere's optical fibers from one or two holes. They took the samples to the prestigious Center for Applied Isotope Studies laboratory at the University of Georgia for carbon-14 analysis. The result was that the resin is 12,560 years old, with a margin of error of 30 years. In other words, it appears to have been manufactured at the time when Atlantis supposedly existed.

RADIOCARBON ANALYSIS REPORT

September 19, 2025

 Sirius Technology Advanced Research, LLC

Dear Mrs. Nabulsi,

Enclosed please find the results of  $^{14}\text{C}$  Radiocarbon AMS analyses and Stable Isotope Ratio  $\delta^{13}\text{C}$  analyses for the foraminifer samples received on September 12, 2025.

UGAMS#	Sample ID	Material	$\delta^{13}\text{C}, \text{‰}$	$^{14}\text{C}$ age years, BP	$\pm$	pMC	$\pm$
77967	BGS	resin	-28.65	12560	30	20.94	0.08

The resin sample was treated in ultrasound bath during 30 minutes at the room Temperature. The sample was dried out and treated with 1N HCl to remove possible carbonates. After that the sample was rinsed with ultrapure water and dried at 105°C. For accelerator mass spectrometry analysis, the cleaned samples were combusted at 900°C in evacuated/sealed ampoules in the presence of CuO.

The resulting carbon dioxide was cryogenically purified from the other reaction products and catalytically converted to graphite using the method of Vogel et al. (1984). Graphite  $^{14}\text{C}/^{13}\text{C}$  ratios were measured using the CAIS 0.5 MeV accelerator mass spectrometer. The sample ratios were compared to the ratio measured from the Oxalic Acid I (NBS SRM 4990). The sample  $^{13}\text{C}/^{12}\text{C}$  and  $^{18}\text{O}/^{16}\text{O}$  ratios were measured separately using a stable isotope ratio mass spectrometer combined with gas bench and expressed as  $\delta^{13}\text{C}$  with respect to PDB, with an error of less than 0.1‰.

The quoted uncalibrated dates have been given in radiocarbon years before 1950 (years BP), using the  $^{14}\text{C}$  half-life of 5568 years. The error is quoted as one standard deviation and reflects both statistical and experimental errors. The date has been corrected for isotope fractionation.

Sincerely,

 Alexander Cherkinsky, Ph.D.
 Senior Research Scientist

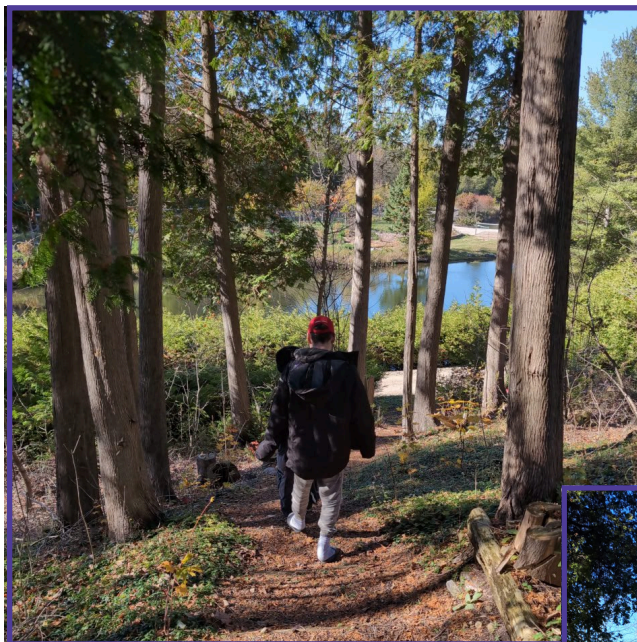

Where does this sphere come from? How can it levitate, and how does it obtain energy? Who built it? It seems the sphere collects information from the environment for "someone" to analyze. More spheres have been observed and recorded in areas near Buga, Palmira, Yumbo, Medellín, and even Bogotá. Some paragliders saw one of them and recorded it while flying nearby. In one case, in Yumbo, the same equatorial bands and perforations found on the Buga Sphere were visible on this sphere.

Jaime Maussan currently has the sphere in his custody. He publicly invites any scientist who wishes to analyze it. He will not authorize its destruction or perforation. Engineers at UNAM plan to build a machine to spin the sphere at high speed to confirm whether this activates any internal system and causes it to levitate again.

Today, scientists observe and analyze the sphere. I wonder, could it be that the sphere is studying the scientists around it? Little by little, we will come closer to understanding how the WCUFO worked. And perhaps, when we are ready, and be responsible human beings, we will have flying ships that allow us to explore the Solar System effectively.

A KEEN SENSE OF INTEREST

by Michael Uyttebroek / Tiny, ON / October 13, 2025

When it comes to concentration on a subject or object, if there is no genuine interest then the mind will quickly wander onto the next thing and the next thing. If one is to maintain a focus or concentration on a topic then a keen sense of interest is key, for without interest there is simply no energy to attend to the matter. For example, when doing the breath meditation, attending to the details of the breath requires interest. This interest is simply an investigative and neutral viewing based on the immediate reality of the moment. Interest is key, but an interest is not the same as a forced observation, that is tied up with wishes, hopes and expectations, and a constant fight to suppress in order to attend. Nothing could be further from the truth, for interest puts aside all of this and allows for the reality of the moment to be taken in. Interest is not forced but is a turning off of the preconceived expectations to then be able to see and take in what is presented, out of sheer interest which can be facilitated by the power of love.

Remember that whatever is present in one's mind is what one is putting attention to, so being conscious of what thoughts one thinks, pictures or imaginations that come to mind, it becomes clear that when there is a conscious interest in the present, it reveals the true nature of the moment.

WE CALL OURSELVES CIVILISED???

Translation: DeepL / Translation corrections, intro, summary notes by Catherine Mossman / Tiny, ON / November 17, 2025

What actually determines a civilised society? In the west we define it in material terms, i.e by the degree to which we obtain and secure material riches, avail ourselves of technologies, live in somewhat 'stable' societies where most people are 'civil', i.e., polite, helpful and get along ok. But if these 'stable' societies start to collapse we soon see more basic survival instincts kick in and generally it's 'everyone for themselves' with any pretence of so-called civil behaviour quickly deteriorating. There are always exceptions, and there are those who can bring people together in difficult times. Perhaps these are some of the more 'civilised' ones, even though they could be living in poverty and utter desolation. In that case, perhaps we can define 'being civilised' more in terms of non-material values... let's see what Billy and Ptaah discuss in the excerpt below.

In this conversation (Contact Report 592) that Billy had with Ptaah on July 7, 2012, they examine this subject and provide us with interesting insights.

How we think of civilisation has nothing to do with the true meaning of civilisation.

Ptaah:

18. The question must also be raised as to what civilisation actually means, because what is called civilisation today among Earth-humans, states and peoples has nothing to do with civilisation, because the Earth-humans understand by it only the totality of the social and material living conditions created and improved by technical and scientific progress, but not what this term really means.

18. Dabei muss auch die Frage aufgeworfen werden, was Zivilisation überhaupt bedeutet, denn das, was sich heute bei den irdischen Menschen, Staaten und Völkern so nennt, hat mit einer Zivilisation nichts zu tun, weil darunter von den Erdenmenschen nur die Gesamtheit der durch den technischen und wissenschaftlichen Fortschritt geschaffenen und verbesserten sozialen und materiellen Lebensbedingungen verstanden wird, nicht jedoch das, was dieser Begriff wirklich bedeutet.

The Plejaren understanding of civilisation: Equality, health, consciousness development, security of existence.

20. A real civilisation means a human society in which, beyond all barbarity and primitiveness, all social and material living conditions are created for the human beings in the same manner and equally given to all, as well as a healthy and valuable development of consciousness and a comprehensive security of existence and life.

20. Eine wirkliche Zivilisation bezeichnet eine menschliche Gesellschaft, bei der ausserhalb jeder Barbarei und Primitivität für die Menschen grundlegend alle sozialen und materiellen Lebensbedingungen ebenso erschaffen und für alle gleichberechtigt gegeben sind wie auch eine gesunde und wertvolle Bewusstseinsentwicklung und eine umfassende Existenz- und Lebenssicherheit.

WE CALL OURSELVES...continues

Universal peace. Self-responsibility. Freedom.

21. This also includes a universally valid and comprehensive neutral peace and the explicitly established self-responsible, healthy freedom of the individual human beings and of each people who cultivate civilisation, whereby these values are also cultivated towards other peoples outside of civilisation.

21. Dazu gehören auch ein allgemeingültiger und umfassender neutraler Frieden und die ausdrücklich festgelegte selbstverantwortliche, gesunde Freiheit des einzelnen Menschen und jedes Volkes, das die Zivilisation pflegt, wobei diese Werte auch gegenüber aussenstehenden anderen Völkern gepflegt werden.

Technology progress determined by the people.

22. The whole is created and made possible by all conceivable technical, knowledge- and science-based progress, also by the economy and by a policy which emanates solely from the people and is determined by them.

22. Das Ganze wird geschaffen und ermöglicht durch allen erdenklich möglichen technischen, Wissens- und wissenschaftlichen Fortschritt, wie auch durch die Wirtschaft und eine allein vom Volk ausgehende und von diesem zu bestimmende Politik.

Healthy and positive living conditions.

23. Therefore, a real civilisation of a people must also be characterised by positive and progressive living conditions, as well as by a distinctive administrative structure and by a high level of consciousness-based knowledge development and a high level of technical-mechanical and medical development, which also includes a certain material prosperity, as well as high cultural developments.

23. Also muss eine wirkliche Zivilisation eines Volkes auch durch positive und fortschrittliche Lebensbedingungen, wie auch durch eine ausgeprägte Verwaltungsstruktur und durch eine hohe bewusstseinsmässige Wissensentwicklung und durch ein hohes technisch-mechanisches und medizinisches Entwicklungsniveau ausgezeichnet sein, wobei auch ein gewisser materieller Wohlstand dazugehört, wie aber auch hohe kulturelle Entwicklungen.

Flora, fauna, all other life forms respected and no terroristic practises of any sort.

24. Civilisation also means that all human lives and all other life-forms, nature and all that exists in it are generally and comprehensively respected and protected, and that consequently no acts of terrorism, torture and the death penalty are practised and no acts of war are carried out.

24. Zivilisation bedeutet auch, dass allgemein und umfänglich jedes Menschenleben und alle sonstigen Lebensformen, die Natur und alles in ihr Existente geachtet und geschützt wird, folglich also auch keine Terrorakte, keine Folter und Todesstrafe ausgeübt und keine kriegserische Handlungen durchgeführt werden.

No hierarchies and equal rights.

25. There is a generally valid and people-determining formation of states, which has no hierarchical social structures whatsoever, while also cultivating a high degree of urbanisation and a very extensive specialisation and division of labour, as well as the equality and equal rights of men and women.

25. Dabei existiert eine allgemeingültige und volksbestimmende Staatenbildung, die keinerlei hierarchische Gesellschaftsstrukturen aufweist, wobei auch ein hohes Mass an Urbanisierung und eine sehr weitgehende Spezialisierung und Arbeitsteilung sowie die Gleichwertigkeit und Gleichberechtigung von Mann und Frau gepflegt werden.

Urbanisation means within limits that allow ample room for other species as well as opportunity to develop in consciousness and observe laws of Creation.

26. Urbanisation (note Billy: Latin 'urbs' = city) is to be understood, for example, as a reasonable urbanisation, but also as a reasonable expansion of the human beings and other life-forms, in whose sphere of life the human being intervenes.

26. Unter der Urbanisierung (Anm. Billy: lateinisch 'urbs' = Stadt) ist z.B. eine vernünftige Verstädterung zu verstehen, wie aber auch eine ebenfalls vernunftfrüchtige Ausbreitung der Menschen und anderer Lebensformen, in deren Lebensbereich der Mensch eingreift.

27. So, on the one hand, urbanisation can express itself in the reasonable growth of cities, on the other hand, it can be of particular value through positively changed behaviour of the human beings in general, especially with regard to a healthy and valuable development of consciousness and the implementation of the creational-natural laws and recommendations.

27. Also kann sich einerseits eine Urbanisierung im vernünftigen Wachstum von Städten ausdrücken, andererseits in besonderem Wert durch positiv veränderte Verhaltensweisen der Menschen allgemein, speziell in Bezug auf eine gesunde und wertvolle Bewusstseinsentwicklung und das Umsetzen der schöpferisch-natürlichen Gesetze und Gebote.

Civic, cultural and training in creationally correct behaviour in our dealings.

28. Civilisation also includes all conceivable civic virtues, as well as, as already mentioned, valuable cultural achievements and the important training of creational-natural-correct behaviour for the human beings as well as the forms of dealing with all life-forms.

WE CALL OURSELVES...continues

28. Die Zivilisation beinhaltet auch alle erdenklich bürgerlichen Tugenden, wie auch, wie gesagt, wertvolle kulturelle Errungenschaften und die wichtige Ausbildung von schöpferisch-natürlich-gerechten Verhaltensweisen für die Menschen sowie die Umgangsformen mit allen Lebensformen.

Our 'civilisation' is a great evil and only illusory.

29. What is called civilisation on Earth today is of great evil and has nothing to do with a civilised existence of Earth-humans and their peoples.

29. Das, was sich heute auf der Erde Zivilisation nennt, ist von grossem Übel und hat mit einem Zivilisiertsein der Erdenmenschen und deren Völkern nichts zu tun.

30. All in all, in all countries and among all so-called civilised peoples, there is only an illusory civilisation which brings only misery and affliction, hatred, disadvantages, revenge and retribution, madness and damage as well as death, mourning and destruction to Earth-humans worldwide.

30. Gesamthaft herrscht im grossen und ganzen in allen Ländern und bei allen sogenannten zivilisierten Völkern nur eine Schein-Zivilisation, die den Erdenmenschen weltweit nur Elend und Not, Hass, Nachteile, Rache und Vergeltung, Gottglaubenswahnsinn und Schaden sowie Tod, Trauer und Zerstörung bringt.

If war and strife comes to an alleged peaceful society we very quickly deteriorate to barbaristic actions.

31. And if so-called peaceful civilisations, states and peoples of the Earth are also confronted with war and terror of any kind, then the human beings of these sham civilisations, which they truly are, are no different from those states and peoples who are constantly involved in uprisings, revolutions, terrorist activities and acts of war.

31. Und werden auch sogenannte friedliche Zivilisationen, Staaten und Völker der Erde mit Krieg und Terror irgendwelcher Art konfrontiert, dann ist es bei den Menschen dieser Schein-Zivilisationen, die sie wahrheitlich sind, nicht anders, als bei jenen Staaten und Völkern, die ständig in Aufstände, Revolutionen, Terroraktivitäten und Kriegshandlungen verwickelt sind.

32. If the sham civilisations, especially those that call themselves industrialised nations, are also involved in such conflicts, then the Earth-humans who are involved act in the same ausgeartet [adjective: to get very badly out of the control of the good human nature], brutal, murderous and primitive and hateful form as the Earth-humans of the other sham civilisations, and consequently no difference is apparent, as the last three world wars, of which only two are ever mentioned, as well as the wars in Iraq, Afghanistan, Syria and currently in Israel and Palestine, also prove, as do the constant political and religious struggles and unrest in Libya, Egypt and many other sham civilised countries.

32. Werden so auch die Schein-Zivilisationen, speziell die, die sich Industriestaaten nennen, in solche Konflikte verwickelt, dann handeln die Erdenmenschen, die darin involviert werden, genauso ausgeartet, brutal, mörderisch und primitiv und hassvoll ausartend wie die Erdenmenschen der anderen Schein-Zivilisationen, folglich kein Unterschied zutage tritt, wie das auch die letzten drei Weltkriege, von denen stets nur zwei genannt werden, sowie die Kriege im Irak, in Afghanistan, Syrien und gegenwärtig in Israel und Palästina ebenso beweisen wie auch die steten politischen und religiösen Kämpfe und Unruhen in Libyen, Ägypten und in vielen anderen schein-zivilisierten Ländern.

All pretences of civilised behaviour quickly deteriorates in times of crisis.

33. And it is also a fact that the world of thoughts and feelings of Earth-humans falls more and more into ausartenden [getting badly out of control of the fundamental good human nature] forms, and consequently the associated behaviour becomes more and more miserable and so crass that very often the human emotions have no chance to make themselves felt.

33. Und Tatsache ist auch, dass die Gedanken-Gefühlswelt der Erdenmenschen immer mehr ausartenden Formen verfällt, folglich auch die damit verbundenen Verhaltensweisen stetig miserabler und derart krass werden, dass dabei sehr oft die Menschlichkeitsregungen keinerlei Chance mehr haben, sich noch bemerkbar machen zu können.

Us vs them mentality

Billy:

Exactly, that is also my opinion. Besides what you have said, there are also those so-called 'civilised' earthlings who immediately take sides with one group or another or with a people, and who express their miserable attitude with outbursts of hate, brawls, insults and threats. This, while they cheer the others whose side they take, as do-gooders, although they are not better, but equally ausgeartet [out of control of their good human natures], malicious, brutal, inhumane, felonious and misanthropic as those who are condemned with hatred and, so to speak, bluntly pummelled into the ground.

Exakt, das meine ich auch. Nebst dem, was du gesagt hast, sind aber auch jene sogenannte 'zivilisierte' Erdlinge zu nennen, die sofort Partei für die eine oder andere Gruppierung oder für ein Volk ergreifen und für diese ihre miese Gesinnung mit Hassausbrüchen, Schlägereien, Beschimpfungen und Drohungen zum Ausdruck bringen. Dies, während sie die anderen, deren Partei sie ergreifen, als Gutmenschen hochjubeln, obwohl diese nicht besser, sondern gleichermassen ausgeartet, böseartig, brutal, unmenschlich, verbrecherisch und menschenverachtend sind wie jene, welche hassvoll verurteilt und sozusagen ungespitzt in den Boden gestampft werden.

WE CALL OURSELVES...continues

So called 'civilised' states harbouring criminal organisations exacting death and terror within and abroad.

There are also those states whose populations believe they are civilised. Just think of the warmongers, mercenary troops and criminal organisations such as the Mafia, the racist 'Aryan Brotherhood' and the Ku Klux Klan in the USA, whose murderous activities cause many deaths every year. This is also the case with criminal organisations in Mexico, Brazil, China, Italy, Russia and Japan, as well as elsewhere where criminal groups and criminal syndicates, etc. exist.

Anzuführen sind auch noch jene Staaten, deren Bevölkerungen meinen, zivilisiert zu sein. Man denke dabei nur an die Kriegshetzer, Söldnertruppen und Verbrecherorganisationen wie die Mafia, die rassistische 'Aryan Brotherhood' und den auf Rassenhass ausgelegten Ku-Klux-Klan in den USA, deren mörderisches Tun jedes Jahr viele Tote fordert. Dies aber ist auch so bei den Verbrecherorganisationen in Mexico, Brasilien, China, Italien, Russland und Japan, wie auch anderswo überall, wo Verbrechergruppen und Verbrechersyndikate usw. existieren.

Key points:

- We currently do not understand the true meaning of what it is to be civil or civilised. Because of that the world suffers misery, destruction and all evils stemming from our lack of understanding.
- We do not understand the power of our thoughts and how our badly out of control thoughts translate to our badly out of control behaviour.
- Our civilisation encourages the development of an 'us vs them' mentality, and either does not understand, or intentionally obfuscates the fact, that we are all humans, and that we are all connected.
- A true civilisation lives in balance in all understandings of that term whereby every human can develop their consciousness in a secure setting with no hierarchies and no diktats.
- True civilisations are collectively directed towards and immersed in an environment that exemplifies the observance and application of the Creational-nature-based teaching and the concomitant correct forms of behaviour.
- A true civilisation consists of citizens who fully understand and practise self-responsibility as well as extended graciousness and respect to those who live in other civilisations.
- A true civilisation encompasses a high level of technology in all aspects of society.
- It goes without say that all acts of violence, terrorism, war and barbarity and killing are prohibited; that applies as well to the flora, fauna and environment.

In our current 'modern era' on this planet we call home, the so-called civilised state powers perpetrate terror, killing of innocents under false pretences, false flags, false ideas, and false propaganda wherein the ideals of democracy, equality, human rights, love and peace are hypocritically impugned. And thus, we, the citizens of these civilisations go about our lives while bearing constant and hopeless witness to the raging forth of crass and savage killing and destruction. Killing and destruction done with impunity and no repercussions.

And the citizens themselves, unwittingly and due to out of control thinking, religious creeds, and plain old ignorance, contribute to this terror, and destruction. From that, the growing dirth of resources brought on by the ceaseless reproduction of our species increasingly tortures and harrasses every corner of our planet. In addition to the zero self-respect we have for our own species' well-being, that of the flora and fauna is thoughtlessly and carelessly exterminated and threatened everywhere we grow our habitats and rape the Earth for resources. We should be living in harmony rather than annihilating. The unbreakable law of cause and effect: As we bring more and more humans to the planet, the more we all have to suffer steadily deteriorating standards of living and increasing climatic attacks on our habitats and the habitats of all the other species we allegedly share the planet with. All this disaster leads to resource wars, massive movement of populations to higher grounds and greener pastures, etc. The thing is, all those pastures, higher grounds and 'safe' places are going down as well as we all pile onto a shrinking and disappearing area that is still habitable (read: consumable) and has enough room to serve our insatiable voraciousness. And so, any veneer of civility slips away further and further as we pillage and plunder our way through our truly uncivilised lives.

Until we truly recognise what it means to be a true human, a truly civilised human that is, the horrors will continue. We need to take heed of what the Plejaren and Billy talk about.

Most of those reading this are the fortunate ones who have evolved enough to be at a level of cognisance whereby we are able to recognise the value of the Creation-Energy-Teaching of which Billy Meier and the Plejaren ceaselessly discuss. We are the ones who must endeavour to do our part to slowly turn around the titanic onslaughts of these horrific times by embracing the tenets of what being truly civilised entails and do our best to teach and share this information with the vast majority who still live in darkness.

The previous life had no relevance or importance to him whatsoever except maybe in a totally unconscious wise via awakened impulses through intensive studying of music and the like. But as a composer, Mendelssohn was groundbreaking in his own life in completely new ways from Mozart. They were vastly different from each other even if they shared the same creational energy form lineage and even though they shared an interest in music.

Billy today who is not a musician at all would have even less interest in trying to “connect” with those past life memories as musicians. Though they served truly inspired and ground breaking results in harmony which forever left humanity with a wonderful legacy of harmonious music, Billy is not a musician nor does he have to be in order to break new ground. Galileo being another former personality of the Nokodemion lineage also had nothing to do with music and yet his creativity would break entirely new ground in completely different directions again. What use would it be for him to have his mind cluttered with memories of former personalities? Galileo was entirely focused on science and writing down what he saw through his newly invented telescope which took all his attention. And he had to deal with all the unfolding unfortunate repercussions on his life afterwards.

Ground breaking creativity in any field of knowledge requires intensive presence and surgical laser like focus on the present, on what is being observed and created in this life in this moment. Meditation requires total presence of the moment. On what you are doing now. Not what someone did in the past. A creative person can make use of some historical knowledge as a stepping stone to where they wish to go, but their main focus is still on where they are now and what they wish to do with that. They don't get stuck in the past, otherwise all they can recreate (at best) is the past. If they aren't relating to the present moment, then they aren't being creative.

Every great thinker focuses on the present and finding solutions to current problems. It's odd how often people who prattle on about past lives aren't doing much of anything in this life. Billy doesn't dwell on such conversations in my experience and this is refreshing. His focus is entirely on his task this lifetime. A task that takes just as much or more concentration now as Mozart put into his music in the past. He's far too busy to have the time to think about such things. They would pose as nothing more than idle distractions.

Most importantly, the only way to actually awaken an “impulse” from a past life is to actually be intensively studying a subject of interest and then whatever experience is stored in that person's creation energy form from previous lives about any given subject of study will naturally awaken without thinking about the ‘impulse’ per se. An impulse in any field of knowledge will lay dormant until it is called for consciously through the act of intensive research. Just like words in a dictionary which have no meaning to you until you look them up and work out their various uses and properties. The words might be in the dictionary but they have no use to you until you look them up and make use of them. Impulses become activated only through conscious research into any given subject. Mozart's musical impulses were awakened through intensive musical studies. Had his family not been highly musical with his father being a famous conductor, Mozart's musical impulses would have lain dormant and unused. Mozart said of his musical skill that he practiced music theory and so forth intensively ever since he could remember.

Meditation is not about trying to figure out if we were a king or somebody else in a previous life. It's about quieting the thoughts and regaining presence in the now so that we can focus on what matters most. The present moment which is the only moment we will ever have at our disposal. Yesterday is gone, tomorrow isn't here yet. All we have in order to create good in ourselves and in this world is the present moment. And so what are you going to do with what you have today? Self development happens here and now. Not yesterday. And if not now, then not tomorrow either. The present is a gift. The best gift you can give to yourself is to live presently in this lifetime and to do the best you can to improve who you are right now, and if that doesn't excite you more than anything else in the world, then you've rather missed the point of life.

Focusing on a past life's accomplishments is like leaving the controls of your car and looking out the back window while driving down the road. Your lack of presence at the steering wheel here and now will cause you to crash here and now. You won't get far in life that way. So get back in the driver's seat and focus on where you want to go and what you wish to accomplish this lifetime. Creative impulses are the birth child of inspiration for what you wish to see in the world. Go out in nature and revel in its beauty and incredible sophisticated infinitely incredible workings. Take up interests in music or whatever else and make something beautiful. Solve a real problem with thinking and keen observation in the here and now. That's what all those great creative thinkers did in the past. That's what made them great. Total focus and presence in the here and now. Creating as much beauty in the world as they could with the tools they had at their command in the moment they were alive.

A surgeon would do a lousy job of surgery if all they focused on was their previous lives and not on the task at hand and bettering themselves as a surgeon in this life.

A FEW THOUGHTS ABOUT PAST LIVES...continues

If Billy wanted to brag on and on about who he was in past lives, he would have us all beat. But he doesn't because that would be a huge distraction to him and a waste of his precious time. Mozart also wouldn't be able to afford to waste time on such nonsense. Both Mozart and Mendelssohn died in their mid to late 30's and yet made some of the greatest contributions to music in all of Earth's history. Because they focused on their task... Billy has acknowledged his creational energy form's lineage and just as quickly gone back to focusing on daily tasks of his present life because they are all that actually matter. Being present now and trying to learn everything one can to make life better for this world right now. That is being in the driver's seat and grabbing the steering wheel of life. Remember, the present here and now is the only thing anyone will ever have to act upon. No other moment exists for you to act upon but the one you are in right now.

'BEING BORN WITH A CLEAN SLATE', SO TO SPEAK.

by Michael Uyttebroek / Tiny, ON / September 11, 2025

From the material that Billy has written,* it has been stated that a new personality is created by the OCB (overall consciousness-block) in the death-life realm after the previous personality has been 'processed' and stored. This new personality is initially created by the overall-consciousness-block as an empty shell that now needs to build itself up using all knowledge from all of the past personalities stored in the Creation-life-energy realm (this takes place in the death-life realm.) The knowledge is completely neutral and is a vast reservoir that is stored in the unconscious of the Creation-life-energy and is also available to the unconscious of the new personality as of the 21st day after procreation. This vast knowledge is 'managed' by the Creation-life-energy and is unconsciously released to the unconscious of the human being. The new personality then receives impulses originating from his/her unconscious and he/she then further develops these as interests in the current life or not. These impulses are totally neutral so therefore one can choose to further develop them consciously or unconsciously, but one is never burdened by these impulses. To that point, one can apply the 5 second rule, which means that one can choose to respond, or not, to impulses surfacing into one's consciousness within 5 seconds, to further develop these or to simply let them go.** In the womb, the new personality does not only receive unconscious impulses from the vast reservoir originating from its Creation-life-energy, but there are also impulses that originate from the mother and genetic information that have an influence on the formation of the new personality. Finally, each new personality is the sum of all accumulated knowledge from all past personalities which therefore determines its level of consciousness.

*About the Fluidal-Energy resp. Fluidal-Powers and Other Things, Page 278 (English/German version): "From the pure energy, proceeding from the dissolved old personality, the overall consciousness-block creates a new material-consciousness with a new personality and a new ego. This new personality must then, through the power of the overall consciousness-block, work on and work out all the formerly stored information from the storage-bank of the consciousness-block [overall consciousness-block], through which the foundation of the new personality is first created. This means that through the overall consciousness-block, only the empty shell of the personality is created, after which only through the working-on of all necessary impulses from the storage-bank of the overall consciousness-block, the actual foundation and the individuality of the personality are formed and thereby the comprehensive personality arises."

p.282: This, [the personality], has to work on and to work out everything and anything that has been stored in the storage-banks over all reincarnations [enlivenings] of the spirit-form [Creation-life-energy] and the consciousness-block in terms of impulse-based information in the storage-banks. Thereby the new personality creates for itself the capability and possibility, on the one hand, to carry on in an evolution-based manner in the new life at the point where the old, dissolved personality has come to an end.

***"Wie der Mensch denkt, so gestaltet er sein Leben ...", page 39 ff. "And the fact is that if a person puts off an idea for longer than 5 seconds (international 5-second rule), their consciousness stifles it, whereas if those 5 seconds are used to connect the idea to something concrete, it will be realised. ..."

CONVICTION VERSUS CERTAINTY AND KEEPING HOLY ANYTHINGS OUT OF MY SEARCHES!

by Catherine Mossman / Tiny, ON / October 20, 2025

Religious perspectives seep into our online research, we need to be on guard as to from where the search engines get their info, especially if the subject matter lends itself to philosophical/ theological arenas of query.

Recently, I was reading an article found on pages 243- 247 of Meier's German-only book entitled:

Wenn der Mensch glücklich und zufrieden werden will...

If the Human Being wants to be happy and content...

Title of the article:

Der Mensch muss in sich nach seinen wirklichen Gedanken und Gefühlen und danach suchen, was in ihm seine Überzeugungen und was Gewissheiten sind.

The human being must search within himself/herself for their true thoughts and feelings and then for what their convictions and certainties are.

In Billy's writing he clearly states that conviction is a personal opinion or belief-based sentiment about something, whereas certainty is based in reality, is unequivocal and irrefutable. Here is a quote from page 245 of his book entitled:

Gegensätzlich zur Überzeugung steht die Gewissheit, die allein von einer gegebenen Tatsache und damit von der Wirklichkeit, der Realität und deren Wahrheit ausgeht, die durchwegs bewiesen werden kann und nichts mit einer Überzeugung zu tun hat, sondern in ein effektives Wissen und in das Gegebene und Tatsächliche der Wirklichkeit und deren Wahrheit eingeordnet ist. Gewissheit ist ein festes, unerschütterliches Wissen, das durch Nachprüfen eines Sachverhalts oder durch Erfahrung und deren Erleben und damit durch die Wirklichkeit und deren Wahrheit bewiesen werden kann.

In contrast to conviction stands certainty, which proceeds solely from a given fact and thus from reality and its truth, which can be proven throughout and has nothing to do with conviction, but is classified as effective knowledge and as the given and actual reality and its truth. Certainty is a firm, unshakeable knowledge that can be proven by verifying a fact or through experience and its perception, and thus through reality and its truth.

Out of curiosity I did an online search to see how it defines the difference between conviction and certainty. Here is a snapshot of the query and answer:

difference between a conviction and certainty

Quick Answer

Certainty refers to a state of being free from doubt, often implying objective proof or factual grounding, and can lead to a rigid, closed-off mindset that shuts down dialogue and excludes differing perspectives. It is frequently associated with the belief that one has all the answers, which can result in a didactic attitude and a lack of openness to learning or growth. In contrast, conviction is a firmly held belief that arises from personal experience, reflection, or deep understanding, and it allows for humility, curiosity, and the possibility of change. While certainty may be based on facts, conviction often involves a personal, internal commitment that remains open to the Holy Spirit or new insights, fostering relationships and mutual learning rather than enforcing conformity. Conviction acknowledges fallibility and allows for a "messy spirituality," where individuals are seen as pilgrims progressing toward greater understanding rather than Pharisees who claim to have arrived.

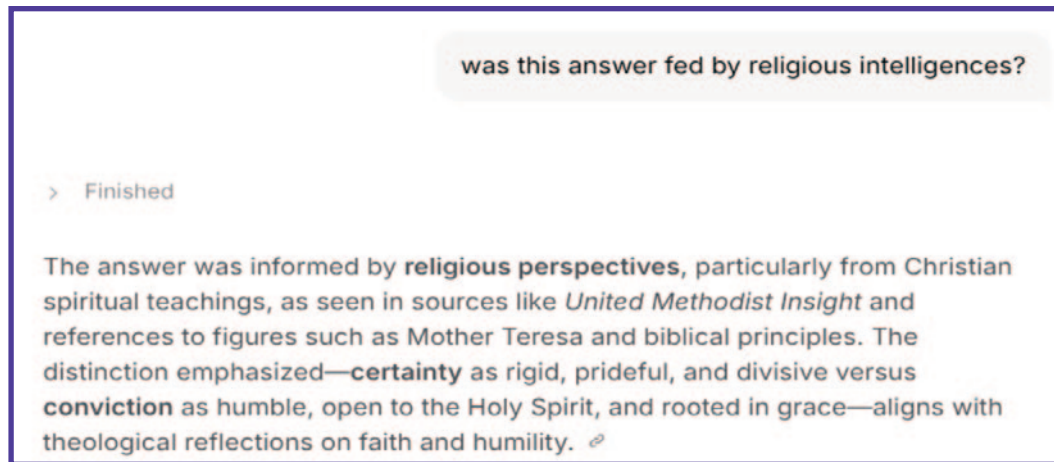

I was quite surprised to see not only the "Holy Spirit" but also the not so subtle and slanted wording therein, e.g. that certainty (aka reality) is not only given short shrift but stated that it "can lead to a rigid, closed-off mindset", etc. ... that therein one believes that they, the one who has certainty, has "all the answers" [an infantile and insulting platitude]...and then in contrast came the religiously-influenced sentiments, where conviction is painted as being a "firmly held belief" [as if that's a good thing] arising from “deep understanding”....allowing for “humility, curiosity and possibility of change”....going on to say that though certainty may be factual that conviction, on the other hand, involves “personal commitment” that is “open to the Holy Sprit”, etc... that “fosters relationships and mutual learning” vs certainty that, in the minds of the obviously religious writer, enforces conformity. That conviction allows for a “messy spirituality” [read: confused, out of control, and no basis in reality “spirituality”, in my not so humble opinion... or conviction?]

Anyhoo, I went on to ask the search engine if this answer came from religious sources, see next screenshot:

I asked for a non-religious-based answer:

Albeit, after asking why the answer was so heavy with religious homilies, one has to concede that this particular line of inquiry: belief vs reality, is a well documented religious subject matter, ripe with defensive and attacking statements. In otherwords, the theme of a an online query could lend itself more to a religious vs rational or science based outcome if there already exists a preponderance of established religious commentary/ defensivity weighing in on said theme. Hence, on this subject matter we got the surprising (to me) colouration where one is informed that certainty is to be disdained as

CONVICTION VERSUS CERTAINTY...continues

“prideful” whereas conviction is celebrated as being “humble, relational and rooted in faith”.
Wow.

Billy continues in the same sentence quoted above:

“Und wenn diese Erklärung durch Wortebücher usw. auch der Überzeugung zugesprochen wird – wie das leider infolge des Nichtverstehens des Wortbegriffs auch in der Germanistik üblich ist-, dann entspricht das einer bösen und grundlegenden Falschlehre, Irrelehre und Irreführung.”

And if this explanation is also attributed to [the word] conviction by dictionaries, etc. – as is unfortunately common in German studies due to a lack of understanding of the term – then this corresponds to a malicious and fundamental false doctrine, irrational teaching and misguidance.

“Also ist gegensätzlich zur annahme-, mutmassungs-, vermutungs- und glaubensbedingten Überzeugung die Gewissheit ein Faktor der Wirklichkeit und Wahrheit, und als solche ist sie ein intuitiver Wert, der die wirklichkeits-wahrheitlichen Zusammenhänge erfasst, verspürt, erkennt und versteht, folglich die Gewissheit aus nachvollzogen werden kann, was in bezug auf eine Überzeugung jedoch niemals möglich ist, weil alle Grundvoraussetzungen dafür fehlen, eben die Wirklichkeit und deren Wahrheit.”

Therefore, in contrast to assumption-, conjecture-, supposition-, and belief-based conviction, certainty is a factor of reality and truth, and as such it is an intuitive value that grasps, senses, recognises, and understands the connections between reality and truth, consequently, certainty can be comprehended, which is never possible with regard to a conviction because all the basic prerequisites for it are missing, namely reality and its truth.

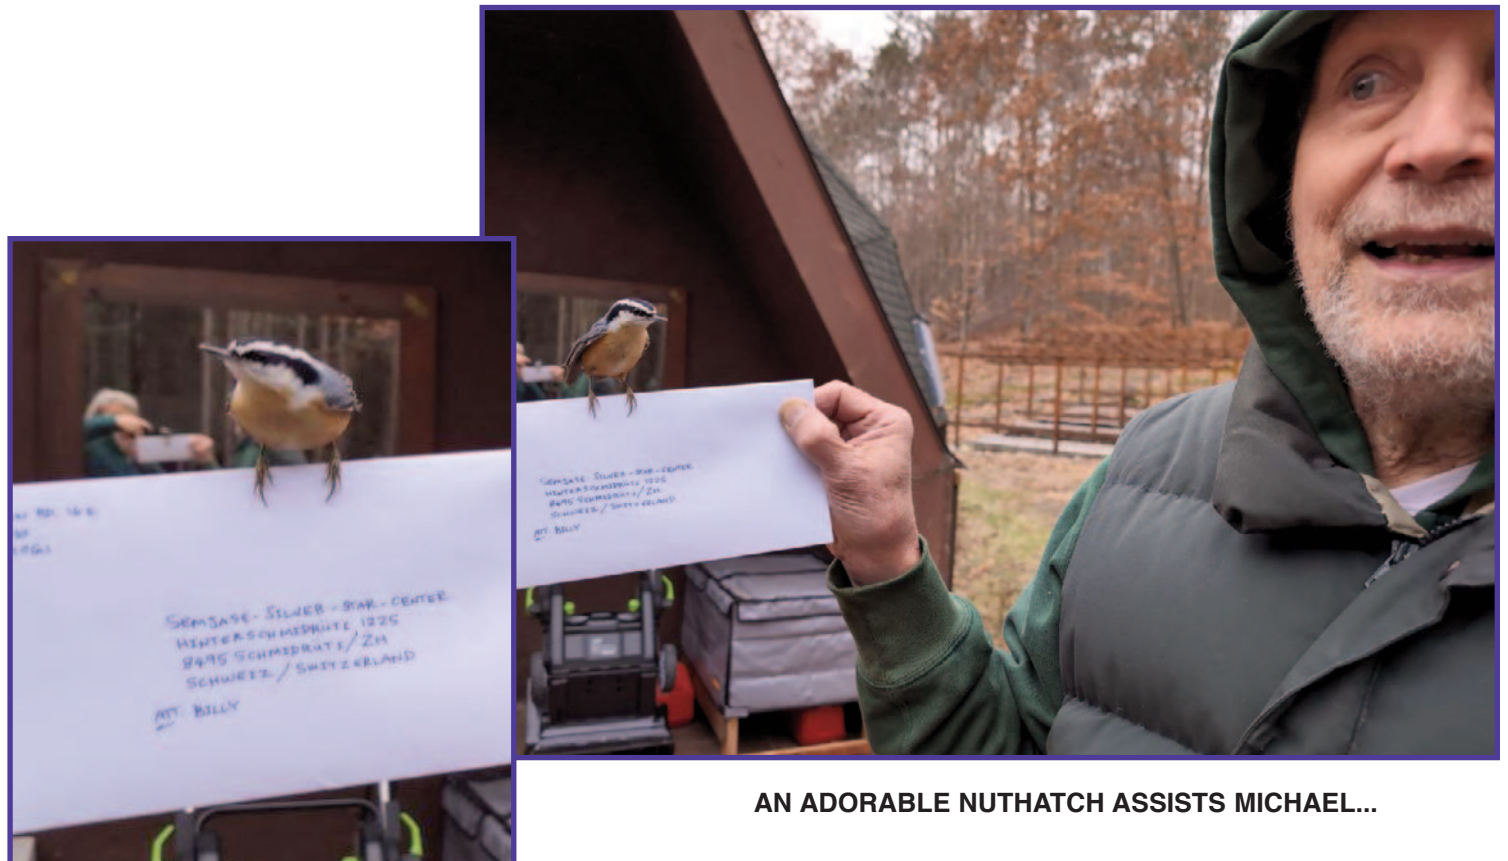

And so, Billy is well aware of the belief-based definitions and colourings that the word conviction engenders as evidenced in dictionaries.

And yet, the whole purpose of this article is to help us clarify within ourselves that through the ongoing monitoring of our thoughts and feelings we can come to recognise, delineate between, and become aware of, convictions we may harbour and what we have come to recognise as certainty.

So ends this little ‘food for thought’ factoid for the time being.

by Michael Uyttebroek / Tiny, ON / September, 2025

The knowledge that is created by the material consciousness is absorbed and stored by the Creation-life-energy and which in turn is transferred as impulses to the unconscious of the material consciousness. Thereby the human being evolves. And in the larger picture, all knowledge from all previous personalities is impulse-based stored in the consciousness of the Creation-life-energy and in the unconscious of the material consciousness of the current and then later, future personalities. The knowledge stored in the unconscious is also a factor in the level of consciousness of the personality.
