Quick Tip: Check those batteries

Bluetooth speakers losing signal? Wireless headphones not working? Is the cursor on your wireless mouse jumping? Has your wireless keyboard suddenly gotten finicky and started missing keystrokes?

The problem could (and usually is) the battery. The first symptoms of low battery are spotty performance and you might not always immediately recognize it as a battery problem because the device is still working. It just isn’t working well. When a wireless device acts up, always make sure to replace the batteries or try giving it a recharge.
