The dog days are here!

by N. L. Preston

Woof, woof. The official forty dog days of summer are July 3 through August 11.

Ancient Greeks and Romans believed this was a time of bad luck, drought, and unrest when dogs and men could be driven insane by the extreme heat. Currently, Dog Days are associated with summer's peak temps and humidity; which as my regular readers know, I loathe. To avoid a heat-stricken body, I could take a refreshing dip in our pool, but alas, we have none; and besides, I can't swim. Or I could sip iced tea to cool down inside and out with this recipe I found to be refreshing: www.almanac.com/recipe/dog-days-iced-tea. Or I could turn down the AC, relax in my recliner with my drink of choice, and watch Disney's Frozen for inspiration. Yep, that's my plan.

July 24th is Cousins Day and I love my cousins. We were rural kids who spent our days outside exploring. A swamp, wetlands, bordered our property and that was the first place we headed on explorations. Our parents warned, don't, it's dangerous. Was it? Yes. Did we listen? No, we were dumb@#$$@ but we grew up none the worse for our time outdoors; feeding our imaginations with child driven adventures. Most kids today will never experience that same joy we felt as we defied our parents and ran wild, doing what kids used to do, spending time outside in the summertime. Cell phones, computer games, and other self-isolating activities have replaced authentic chances to socialize and build life skills.

Maybe we should legalize bingo for all ages everywhere and teach young people the fun in playing bingo. After all, bingo is all about socialization and the group delight of playing a game that involves numbers, patterns, and cognitive thinking, but not in zombie like isolation. Laughs and boos frequently break out and we are surrounded by those having a good time; encouraging interaction by all who are present. It presents an opportunity to talk, celebrate wins, and bemoan losses with fellow attendees. We can vent our frustrations aloud to other players instead of internalizing them. Yes, it's still a game with a machine in control, but at least we're in the presence of other humans who are honing their social skills, which our young people definitely need.

Remember that July 11 is Cheer Up the Lonely Day. Francis Pesek of Michigan is mostly credited for it. Known for his own kindness, he was concerned for the neglected around him, shut-ins and others in nursing homes. He drew attention to their plight and his ideas grew into this special day to remember the lonely. Research shows that loneliness is contagious and may infect all who are in a group; 40% of people experience intense loneliness at least once in their lifetime; only 33% of Americans are truly happy, with loneliness a factor; consistent loneliness increases one's chance of early death by 19%. Scary, but we can help by practicing kindness and noticing those around us who may need some TLC. And don't forget July 14 is National Nude Day. Celebrate however you want, but remember what others see, they can never un-see.

Gaming News

AC casino refuses to pay

A woman from New Jersey claimed that an Atlantic City casino refused to pay her a more than $1.2 million jackpot win. Roney Beal, 72, claims she won the jackpot in February while playing a "Wheel of Fortune" slot machine at Bally's Casino. "It went off, says, 'you're a winner,' and gold coins popped out," she told the outlet. "This very nice guy says, 'Oh my God, you hit, you hit!' He said, 'Lady you're a millionaire.'" But after using a button to call for help, a "tilt" message appeared, suggesting that the machine had experienced an issue. Beal said that an employee of the casino quickly appeared on the scene and told her that she had "won nothing" as the machine had suffered a malfunction known as a "reel tilt," which she said she was told voided the win. Beal and her attorney Mike Di Croce say the total jackpot figure would have come to $2.56 million, as Beal hit the multiplier, the New York Post reported. They are preparing a legal complaint against Bally's Casino and its gaming company International Game Technology (IGT) over the disputed win, per the Post.

Harrah's Columbus, NE opens

Harrah's Columbus, NE, Racing & Casino, the $100 million gaming and horse racetrack destination, opened its doors May 17. The casino space spans 17,000-square-feet and includes 400 slot machines, 11 live dealer table games, and a Caesars Race & Sportsbook with a 163-inch video wall and 17 flat screen televisions. "Harrah's is an iconic brand that our guests have come to know and love across the country. We're so happy to be here with our partners and friends as we celebrate what is sure to be a bright future in Nebraska," said Todd Connelly, Caesars Entertainment's regional president. Harrah's is one of five casinos under development in the Cornhusker State. Racetrack casinos are also in the works in Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, and Ogallala.

The rich get richer

A topic that's covered in the Las Vegas Review-Journal on an annual basis compares the pay of casino-company chief executive officers to that of "typical employees" and the R-J recently reported that the ratios at several Las Vegas-based companies last year were, shall we say, unsporting. The ratio for Caesars' CEO, for example, was a mere 560-to-1 ($18.6 million to $33,250 for the "median compensated employee"). Almost as much was Las Vegas Sands at 533-to-1 ($21.9 million to $41,185). Penn Entertainment (Tropicana, M Resort) was also close to the top at 405-to-1 ($15.5 million to $38,332), followed by MGM Resorts International at 374-to-1 ($17 million to $45,502). Boyd was 318-to-1 ($11.4 million to $35,904), Wynn 299-to-1 ($16.2 million to $54,100), the STRAT's Golden Entertainment Inc. 151-to-1 ($6.1 million to $40,136), Bally's 103-to-1 ($4.5 million to $43,956), and Station 84-to-1 ($3.5 million to $41,584).

Bingo raves

Bingo is taking the urban nightlife scene by storm, vaulting from a Rotary Club favorite to the centerpiece of alcohol-and-nacho fueled dance parties. Bingo-themed nightclubs, raves and pop-up parties are showing up in cities nationwide, strewing confetti on partygoers as they giddily dot their bingo boards. “BAM! Confetti... tunes... dance-offs... lip-sync battles” is part of the pitch from Bingo Loco, which stages bingo rave parties in cities like New York, Los Angeles, Minneapolis and Austin. Parties feature DJs playing retro tunes and hosts who tell bawdy jokes. And the bingo itself? “Win vacations, along with random prizes ranging from lawnmowers to giant teddy bears!” advertises Bingo Loco, a U.K. import. Bingo as immersive entertainment for young adults originated in the U.K. and is just starting to make inroads in America. Bongo’s Bingo has spread from the U.K. to 40 countries, holding pop-up shows, recently in New York City. At Bongo’s Bingo “different numbers trigger various musical experiences on stage,” the New York Post reports. Gen Z enthusiasms like cornhole and axe-throwing are giving way to once-senior-oriented pastimes like bingo and shuffleboard as young people seek novelty in their partying. The bottom line: Many young adults haven’t played bingo before, so these experiences could be their first—and seminal —encounter.

A Bingo-lovin’ Sasquatch?

When Toronto agency Sister Merci brainstormed ideas for a different kind of online gaming campaign—one that would slice through the increasingly noisy clutter—naturally, casting a Sasquatch as the central character roared to mind. Actually, Big Fran, the shaggy star of Casino Time spots that dropped this spring, doesn’t roar, grunt or growl. She speaks perfect English—and uses opposable thumbs to work a touchscreen with the best of them. She’s a sanguine spokes-creature who’s always up for bingo and blackjack from the comfort of her cave or the sun-splashed forest. “Estonian actor Piret Jõgeda wasn’t meant to be a Sasquatch at all,” Sister Merci founding partner and CCO Amanda Wood told the press. “Our casting agency had actually submitted her for a non-speaking role as one of the bingo ladies. But as soon as we saw her audition video, we knew we’d found our Fran...We shot the cave scene in a public conservation area and it was pretty entertaining to see the double-takes from dog walkers and joggers,” Wood recalls. “The suit’s literal big feet, big hands and thick padding made it pretty tough to move in. Watching three PAs trying to help her out of a hatchback is a scene we won’t soon forget.” These spectacles could be repeated around Ontario as Fran hits the road for brand activations this summer.

WOULD YA’ BELIEVE?

... Australian bushranger Joseph Johns escaped from prison so many times that the government finally had to build a special cell to hold him, after which an overly (if understandably) confident governor said to him, “If you get out again, I’ll forgive you.” You guessed it: Johns escaped that as well.

... There’s a “Heaven Scent Pizza” for dogs, made of flour, carrots, celery and Parmesan cheese.

... Two Chinese bank employees stole over $6.6 million and spent it all on lottery tickets. Unfortunately, crime didn’t pay when they only recovered about $13,000.

... Don Rickles died before he could record dialogue for Toy Story 4. Rather than replacing him, Disney reviewed 25 years of material from the first three films, video games and other media, and assembled enough to cover the entire film.

... A study has found that second-born children are more likely to be troublemakers.

... In Japan, male students can confess their love to another person by giving them the second button — the one closest to the heart — from the top of their school uniform.

... Laser removal doesn’t actually remove a tattoo. It just helps break it down so the body’s white blood cells can carry it away. Eventually, you poop out your tattoo.

... A bloodhound in Alabama went outside to relieve itself and accidentally joined a half marathon, then ended up in seventh place. The race was redubbed the “Hound Dog Half,” and those who end up in seventh place earn a special award.

Bingo needs newbies!

Hi Guy,
We only have a handful of Bingo games in our town, which makes it fun to watch the Bingo operators try new ways to attract players.

One of the halls did something I thought was clever: They started encouraging teenagers and young adults to come and play as an inexpensive, new and fun night out. They also amped up the menu with food kids like and play contemporary music (nothing too rockin') before the games.

On one side, it worked...over the course of a few weeks the number of young players climbed from a handful to maybe 20 or so. But on the other side, many older players felt it was inappropriate to encourage these young people to "gamble" and have been vocal in their objections.

Do you think inviting young people to Bingo is a bad thing?—LG, via email

Hi LG,
As long as they are well-behaved and relatively quiet, I have no problem with young people coming to Bingo. In fact, I think it should be encouraged.

Every form of entertainment must have new blood to keep it going, and Bingo is no different. Without new players, Bingo could go the way of the dinosaur. And it has all the ingredients of a fun game that will appeal to young people: socialness, competition, and the opportunity to win prizes to name a few.

It would be interesting to hear from readers about their feelings regarding young people at Bingo. I hope you'll share your thoughts (email tara@bingobugle.com, snail mail: Bingo Bugle, Box 527, Vashon WA 98070). —Guy

Veterans Post

Getting help when leaving the service

Those who leave the service can be in for quite a life change, not only for them but for their families. The VA knows this and has set aside $4 million to be used this year as grants to organizations that help with that transition. The services these organizations are to provide include employment placement, interview training, resume help and more.

Besides the grants to organizations, the VA takes its own steps. See benefits.va.gov/transition/transition-home.asp for more information.

The Military to Civilian Readiness Pathway (M2C Ready) is a two-year effort: one year before you leave the service and one year afterward.

Part of M2C Ready is the Solid Start program, which helps veterans during the first year of leaving the service. They give you three calls during that first year (at the 90, 180 and 365 day marks) to make sure you know about the benefits you have. (A heads up ... take care that you're not talking to a scammer. Veterans are often targeted, so beware what personal info you disclose on the phone.)

You can call Solid Start at 800-827-0611 or see benefits.va.gov/TRANSITION/solid-start.asp. The page has lists and links to resources you

Dear Aunt Bingo

by Bonnie Mitchell

Deplorable behavior at Bingo

Dear Aunt Bingo,

I became the saddest person in the world when I witnessed an act of racism at a local Bingo hall.

A Hispanic lady asked a non-Hispanic woman if somebody was sitting at the table next to her, and the woman's answer was that the Hispanic lady (and her friends) could not sit there because they speak Spanish. The Hispanic women became upset and called the manager, and right in front of the manager the non-Hispanic woman made a racist comment. The manager immediately told her that if she made another comment like that, she was not going to be allowed in the Bingo hall anymore. (I admire him for doing that!) All her friends started yelling to take the Hispanics out of the Bingo hall, while the woman was yelling and hitting the table very mad, saying, "Speak English, because you are in America!"

It is very sad to see how vicious and ignorant people can sometimes be. I am Hispanic myself. I was lucky to have come to this country when I was 17 years old and to have my mother support me so I could go to school to learn English and get an education. Some people are not that lucky and have to work hard to support their families and don't have the time to go to school and learn the language 100 percent.

I have been mistreated myself, so I feel very bad to see how people mistreat other people just because of their nationality. I think every Bingo hall should let people know that the Bingo tables are not their private property and that they must share, because everybody's money is the same no matter their color or what language they speak.

Most American citizens' ancestors probably spoke another language when they came to the United States from France, Italy, Ireland, Germany, Russia, or elsewhere. This is an immigrant nation.

Let's play Bingo in peace, please! We all go to a Bingo hall to win and have a good time, right? So, let's do so. — V.C., via e-mail

Dear V.C.,

Your Bingo hall experience and observations are so important for readers to hear!

Such behavior in this day and age, in a Bingo hall or anywhere else, is shocking and deplorable. As you say, people seem to forget that the United States is an immigrant nation.

There are millions of people worldwide who long to pursue the same American dream that we enjoy by birthright. And there are still many opportunities for these "new Americans" to make their place in the United States without harming anyone, and, in fact, enhancing the nation's diversity and vitality.

I encourage everyone to be tolerant and accepting of those different from themselves, and to take a stand whenever they see or hear someone express bias like this woman and her cohorts did at Bingo.

They should be ashamed of themselves—and at the very least owe the women whom they harassed an apology. If nothing else good came from their behavior, at least it serves as a lesson to the rest of us how not to behave.

Thank you for having the courage to share this important message. — Aunt Bingo

• Want to pump up a dying fire? Never use lighter fluid. Even if the coals look really gray, they could be hot on the inside. The stream of fluid CAN catch fire. It's too dangerous. Put new briquettes in with the old, and light those up using a long-stick match.

• "Keep flareups from unintentional blackening: Keep a clean spray bottle filled with plain water next to the grill. Long after you're done cooking and you're ready to clean up those ashes from briquettes, mist the ashes first, and it will keep them from making a dust cloud." — U.L. in Georgia

• From charcoal grilling expert Kingsford, here's a great tip to use when grilling chicken: "When applying a dry rub to chicken pieces, it's often hard to keep the rub affixed and it's even more difficult to keep the chicken's original, golden color. Try painting chicken pieces with yellow mustard prior to applying the rub. Not only will the rub stay in place, your final product will be visually appealing — without any trace of mustard flavor."

There goes the bride

Getting lucky in reality TV wedding poker tournament

At the end of April, I had the opportunity to attend the wedding of Adam Klein, who you might know as the winner of Survivor: Millennials vs. Gen X for $1,000,000, and Kailey Lynn, a social media gymnastics star with millions of followers. I had gotten to know Adam through various poker events, and I actually played Season 9 of Survival Challenge with Kailey in the summer of 2022.

Both Adam and Kailey are competitors, so it was no surprise that both have gravitated to poker since moving to Las Vegas. What was a surprise was their desire to hold a special poker tournament for their wedding guests the day after they tied the knot!

The $100 buy-in no-limit hold'em tournament was a private affair that took place inside the Hall of Fame Poker Room at Horseshoe Las Vegas. There were 34 entrants competing including former Survivor contestants Bret LaBelle, Hannah Shapiro, Kellyn Bechtold, Chris Hammons, and Jay Starrett; as well as Big Brother Canada 2 alumni Jon Parady and Arlie Shaban, who have both made a name for themselves in the poker world.

To spice things up, both Adam and Kailey put $50 bounties on themselves, and given the latter was at my table and I was seated to her immediate left — meaning I had position and got to act after her in nearly every hand — I was keen to try and collect the bounty.

With the blinds at 400/800/800, Kailey opened for 2,000 from middle position and I looked down at the KsJs. I quickly called and the rest of the players got out of the way making it heads-up action to the Qd10h9s flop, which gave me the stone-cold nuts.

Kailey continued for 1,600 and I needed to decide whether or not to raise. She was sitting on a stack of around 18,000 and it was my intention to get it all and collect the $50 bounty. So, what was the best way to do that? The flop certainly hit her raising range (i.e. if she raised with big cards or a big pocket pair, this flop connected with such hands), so if I raised, odds are she would come along. However, the possibility existed that she would fold, which I wanted to avoid.

Instead, because I had position, I decided to just call hoping she would fire another bet on the turn. The 10c paired the board on the turn, which I didn't like as I no longer held the nuts given both a full house and quads were possible. Even so, my hand was extremely strong and I was thrilled to see Kailey bet 3,000.

I once again just called with the plan to either bet or raise all in on the river, which was the meaningless 7d. Kailey bet for the third time, tossing out 5,000, which left her around 6,000 back. I barely had her covered, and I paused for a few beats before raising all in.

Kailey seemed a bit surprised that I jammed, and she thought long and hard about what to do. She even called over her husband, Adam, for his advice.

"It's my wedding day, so I'm going to do it," Kailey said before shoving in her chips and turning over the AhAs. At that point I had to be the villain by tabling my straight and eliminating the bride from the tournament, which elicited some well-deserved boos from the remaining players.

It was a win-win though, as I collected the $50 bounty and Kailey still had time to re-enter the tournament. Even so, busting a bride in a poker tournament the day after her wedding is a hand I won't soon forget.

What's New in Nevada

Silverton Swimmin' Hole

The Swimmin' Hole at Silverton has reopened after being closed for a complete remodel to the tune of $10 million. The pool deck now features cabanas and daybeds, a bar and grill, a 32-foot retractable screen at the bar for special-event broadcasts, fire pits, and new restrooms. It's part of a $50 million makeover at Silverton, including a refresh of the casino and a complete renovation of the property's 300 hotel rooms completed last fall.

Big hit at Venetian

A royal flush was hit on a Three Card Poker game at the Venetian in May, triggering the Millionaire Progressive for $1.9 million. The player, identified as from Connecticut, was dealt the royal in spades and had made the $5 side bet, making him eligible for the jackpot. The Millionaire Progressive links up Three Card Poker, Ultimate Texas Hold'em, Crazy 4 Poker, and Mississippi Stud; introduced in 2018, it's been hit 14 times since then.

Las Vegas Spaceport

Last year around this time it was reported that the Las Vegas Spaceport, Inc. quietly acquired 240 acres roughly 50 miles west of the city near Pahrump to build a hotel-casino-astronaut-training-center-spaceport—words that don't often appear together. The company has a plan to get a jump on space tourism, while locating the spaceport near major military bases and their pilots and technicians, plus rocket scientists. Construction is expected to begin in late summer, with an operator selected in four years and space travel "at least five years" away.

Keith Urban heads to Fbleau

After a long residency last year at Zappo's Theater at Planet Hollywood and one at the Colosseum at Caesars in 2019, country singer, songwriter, and guitarist Keith Urban will play 10 shows at BleauLive Theater; the dates are October 4, 5, 9, 11, and 12 and February 14, 15, 19, 21, and 22. This is the first "residency" at the 3,800-seat BleauLive, which has been defined since opening by single shows; Fontainebleau apparently doesn't like the residency label and is calling the 10 shows an "exclusive engagement."

Thurs., July 11 at the Paramount Theater

This "family" group created magic using the soaring, definitive harmonies as the staple to 22 Top 10 hits. Their career spanned over two decades and would place them with Rockin Roll royalty as they were inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1988. Among the groups of the '60's the "California quintet" placed second only to The Beatles in overall impact on the Top 40. Surf, sand, Sun, and Fun!
