About Us

The Human Trafficking Resource Center at Florida Gulf Coast University (the Center), established in 2014, operates through a joint partnership with The Women's Fund of Southwest Florida and Florida Gulf Coast University.

The Center serves the Southwest Florida Human Trafficking Task Force which is chaired by the region's U.S. Attorney's Office located in Fort Myers, Florida. Through its involvement, the Center ensures that human trafficking is addressed in a coordinated manner throughout Southwest Florida.

The Southwest Florida Human Trafficking Task Force is a consortium of local, state and federal agencies, non-profit NGOs, law enforcement agencies and programs that provide comprehensive services to victims of human trafficking.

If you become aware of an instance of human trafficking, either labor trafficking or sex trafficking, and you want to report this to law enforcement, or if you want to report suspicious behavior that you believe might involve human trafficking, please call one of the phone numbers listed below:

- First Point of Contact – 911 (National Emergency Services): Dial 911
- Second Point of Contact – National Human Trafficking Hotline (Polaris Project): Dial 1-888-373-7888 or text BeFree (233733)
- Third Point of Contact – Human Trafficking Resource Center at Florida Gulf Coast University: Dial (239) 745-4276.

If you would like information about human trafficking, please call one of the phone numbers listed below:

- First Point of Contact – Human Trafficking Resource Center at Florida Gulf Coast University: Dial (239) 745-4276.
- Second Point of Contact – National Human Trafficking Hotline (Polaris Project): Dial 1-888-373-7888 or text BeFree (233733).

Mission Statements

The mission of the Resource Center on Human Trafficking at Florida Gulf Coast University is to work towards the prevention, reduction and elimination of human trafficking by providing centralized resources and services that inform best practices in the region.

The USAO Human Trafficking Task Force is a consortium of local, state and federal agencies, non-profit NGOs, law enforcement agencies and programs that provide comprehensive services to victims of Human Trafficking.

The collaborative efforts of both the USAO Trafficking Task Force and the Resource Center on Human Trafficking at Florida Gulf Coast University seek to improve regional efforts against human trafficking by:

- Identifying and responding to victims of human trafficking;
- Improving public awareness about the crime and educating all those who may come into contact with victims of human trafficking and how best to assist them;
- Proactively investigate, apprehend and prosecute all individuals engaged in the crime of human trafficking;
- Coordinate, streamline and enhance services for victims of human trafficking in the Southwest Florida region;
- Provide systematic data collection of human trafficking and related incidents reported by law enforcement and victims service agencies.
- Develop effective responses to instances of human trafficking throughout the region.
