

IASHEP'S CHALLENGE RESULTS OF EXAMINATION POLICY

The International Association of Safety Health Environmental Professionals (IASHEP) gives any candidate the opportunity to provide feedback on the examination content and procedures about:

- Technical accuracy of the examination.
- Fairness in the administration of the examination.
- A candidate who has a concern about administrative procedures at a testing site or who has observed a breach of security or other improper conduct should submit a report in writing within 15 days after taking the examination.
- A candidate who has a question or concern about the reliability, validity, or fairness of the examination may submit the question or concern in writing to the International Association of Safety Health Environmental Professionals (IASHEP) no later than 15 days after taking the examination.

The International Association of Safety Health Environmental Professionals (IASHEP) Director or IASHEP Advisory Board will not consider reports about improper test administration procedures or test contents that exceed the 15-day deadline, or are not submitted in writing.

Candidates who pass the examination are not allowed to challenge their examination results, or to retest.
