Teaching preschool is amazing and extremely gratifying. It is the sort of job you do because you have a passion; a passion for children and a passion for Christ. I love my own two children, Michael and Connor, who continuously remind me to see the world in different ways ~ from their perspectives. It is that innate curiosity ~ the desire to find out so much about the world, that you find in preschoolers. It brings me great joy. Being able to experience the world with them, seeing their eyes open in wonder as they learn about baking soda and vinegar volcanoes, watching them try their hands at finger painting...it's those experiences that bring each day to life.
