Lo, children are an heritage of the LORD: and the fruit of the womb is his reward. As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man; so are children of the youth. Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them: they shall not be ashamed, but they shall speak with the enemies in the gate. (Psalm 127:3-5).

An arrow only shoots in the direction it is pointed, so too is it with your children. Among the responsibilities that come with rearing children, one of them should be a concern for the child's soul and his fate for all of eternity. Salvation is so simple that even a young child can understand it, and a child is as much accountable for his actions in the eyes of God as an adult when he reaches the age to understand sin. The Bible says whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the Lake of Fire (Revelation 20:15), at that applies to a child who has reached the age of accountability.

Salvation from hell involves four points that can be translated to a child. First: everyone is a sinner (Romans 3:23). Second, the payment for our sin is that we die; we were supposed to live forever but because of Adam and Eve's sin we will all die. Third, not only does our body die but we have a soul—that soul will go on forever in hell to pay for our sin (Revelation 20:14-15). Lastly, Jesus died on the cross to pay the penalty for our sins; all we have to do is ask him to save us from hell: For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved (Romans 10:13). You may say the prayer on the reverse to accept Christ as your Savior. Don't you want your child to be sure he is going to heaven someday?
