

Internet Use

The Library cannot guarantee the accuracy of information on the Internet. Furthermore, patrons assume responsibility for their personal devices and the privacy of their usage.

Failure to comply with the following rules may result in loss of computer and library privileges:

- Viewing material that violates federal, state or local laws or regulations, including those regarding accessing, viewing, printing and distributing obscenity, pornography, or child pornography
- Hacking into the library computer system or any other computer system
- Mishandling, damaging or attempting to damage computer equipment or software; tampering with computer settings
- Interfering with system operations, integrity or security
- Attempting to gain or gaining access to another person's files or authorization code
- Displaying or printing materials that violate the Sexual Harassment policy
- Engaging in any activity that creates an intimidating or hostile environment
- Violating copyright laws and software licensing agreements or the policies of the individual websites that you view
- Failing to pay for printing or other technology use fees
- Refusing or ignoring a staff person's request to give up a computer
- Failing to comply with time limits