Mission Update

In his latest ministerial report, evangelist, Akaninyene Nyah, has shared many things about the work in Nigeria. Of note are the many religious programs aimed at teaching "morals and spiritual lessons" to students and their families.

The Children's Hour of Prayer is one of these programs. This program runs every Sunday and lasts for 2 and a half hours. About eighty kids are always in attendance. The majority of these kids have parents that are church members, but some attendees are locals from the village. Through this program many souls have been touched positively. Besides teaching scriptures, kids are taught issues like drug abuse and how it effects the body. They also learn about HIV-AIDS and how it is acquired. This is a very rare opportunity which kids from other schools are yearning for.

Making a Difference

All the kids in our school are well fed through our daily feeding program. They are in very good physical condition. This is crucial, because most of their families are in abject poverty. During the rainy seasons, the families who live in thatch houses are exposed to cold. Last Quarter, we donated textbooks, calculators and other educational materials to our former students, who now attend high school. We meet with them once every quarter to discuss their welfare and counsel them. They are doing great and we are proud of them.

Prayer Teams

We would like to form Prayer Teams based out of our sponsoring congregations. We are looking for people who would be interested in hosting them. As a host, you will receive prayer requests and will be responsible for sharing this information with your other Prayer Team members. The prayer requests will usually be related to the mission, but your group can choose to include requests of their own. You can pray as a whole group, or individually. If you are interested, please email or write us.
