To Whom It May Concern:

"In 2008, I asked Tim if he'd be interested in teaching Corporate Air Part's FAA 135.331 Crewmember Emergency Training classes, which is an annual requirement for charter aircraft pilots and flight attendants. Tim's military, government and civilian survival and teaching background made him a natural fit. He was instantly up to speed and continually works to improve the course. He has taught thousands of students in his unique and entertaining style and continually receives outstanding ratings. Tim knows how to grab a group's attention and deliver a fast paced, 8-hour program, continually exceeding student's expectations. He also delivers the American Heart Association's very important Heartsaver First Aid, CPR & AED course oriented to aviators.

Tim is an extremely reliable staff member. He is well liked, respected by the staff and takes his job seriously. We are pleased to be working with Tim and look forward to many more years of a positive and productive relationship."

Sincerely,
