

Roger Cichy

Roger Cichy's diverse experiences as both a composer/arranger and a music educator provide him with a strong toolkit for the creation of a variety of musical works. He holds a Bachelor of Music and a Master of Arts degree in music education from Ohio State University. He also studied composition and arranging as second area of study where he studied with Edward Montgomery, Marshal Barnes and Joseph Levey. His teaching experience includes Mars, Pennsylvania; University of Rhode Island and Iowa State University. Roger is an ASCAP award winning composer and now writes, composes and arranges full-time. He has written works for middle school, high school, college and professional bands and orchestra as well as for commercial media. He currently has over 300 works to his credit and is published by many of the major American music publishers. Print Music Source is proud to now count Roger Cichy among our contributing writers.
