

128 Law Day Presentations Reach Nearly 6,000 Students!

Many Louisiana cities have local bar associations and other organizations that conduct wonderful programs in honor of Law Day. The Louisiana Center for Law and Civic Education (LCLCE) sought to reach those students who were not fortunate to be a part of one of those programs. Instead of doing one program in honor of Law Day, the LCLCE, through the “Lawyers in the Classroom/Judges in the Classroom” program, organized multiple in-class presentations across the state during Law Day week. Thanks to enthusiastic teachers and an endless supply of volunteers from the Louisiana legal community, these Law Day programs occurred in all seven congressional districts and at all grade levels. This year, 128 Law Day presentations were conducted, reaching nearly 6,000 students.

The LCLCE is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization that coordinates, implements and develops law and civic education programs and trains others in the delivery of law and civic education programs throughout Louisiana. It is the public education arm of the Louisiana State Bar Association and is funded in part by the Interest on Lawyers Trust Accounts Program through the Louisiana Bar Foundation.
