

The American Indian Affairs Act of 2025

Section 1

The Bureau of Indian Affairs is abolished effective January 1, 2027. All federal offices administering the Bureau of Indian Affairs are closed on the same date. All federal employees working within the Bureau of Indian Affairs shall be terminated on December 31, 2026. All federal laws and acts pertaining to the Bureau of Indians Affairs are permanently rescinded on January 1, 2026.

Section 2

With the passage of this Act, A Native American shall forever be defined as a person who has at least one great-grandparent, grandparent or parent who is currently registered as a Native American. For a great-grandparent, grandparent or parent to be defined as a Native American, they must be a member of a tribe listed on the current roster of tribes maintained by the Bureau of Indian Affairs as displayed in Appendix A of this Act. DNA testing shall be used to resolve all disputes involving ancestry.

Section 3

Each Native American born prior to January 1, 2026, once nineteen years of age, shall receive one the first day of each month, from the federal government, an electronic payment equal to 173 hours times the then current minimum wage until they qualify to receive social security payments. Ordinary income taxes, including social security and Medicare type taxes levied by local, state or the federal government on its citizens shall be deducted and be paid on this income. Payments are forfeited in the event of incarceration for more than thirty days and remain forfeited so until recipient is released.

Section 4

All Native American Indians born on or after January 1, 2026, are entitled to the same support available to any other American citizen within the state they reside.

Section 5

All lands and all other assets held in trust for Native Americans are to be released to them by January 1, 2026. Until that date, no land or other assets held in trust may be sold or transferred by any means or method. All buildings and all other assets presently owned by any governmental agency located on land that is to be released under this act shall become the property of the new owners of the land on January 1, 2026, with the current owner paying all costs associated with the transfer of the assets. All land, once transferred to a tribe, may forever be sold only to companies (headquartered) or US citizens (living) in the United States.
