

Sharon Ferina is an award winning watercolor artist and instructor who resides in Jensen Beach, FL. She started painting in 1999 when she took a watercolor class while pursuing a degree in library science. Realizing that she loved the medium and had at long-last found her 'passion', she continued her study of watercolor.

Sharon paints expressively, inspired by the beauty of nature. Her serene paintings are colorful and exude a quiet strength. She has traveled extensively and her work reflects the flavor of various landscapes and lifestyles.

Currently teaching watercolor classes at three locations, Sharon is an inspired teacher who is able to guide her students to create art in a joyful and fulfilling manner. Sharon's artwork has been displayed at many local museums and galleries. She also has artwork in the permanent collection of the Elliott Museum.

On the internet you can see her paintings on her blog:
sharonferina@blogspot.com

Are you passionate about art and want to paint in watercolor but with just a bit more? My class will teach you how to add interest and texture to your work along with using new techniques. Sign up and I will encourage you to express your inner self along with creating unique, distinctive, one-of-a-kind artwork.