- All products sold by Champion Technology carry a manufacturer warranty. If you feel you have a defective product, please refer to the warranty information packaged with your product. Please contact us by email if you require assistance.
- Champion Technology does not express or imply any warranty. All warranties are the responsibility of the manufacturer. Champion Technology expressly disclaims liability for any injury, loss, damage, or cost (including labor) of any kind arising from the use or inability to use any item we sell.
- These criteria apply to warranty's for most manufacturers and most products:
 1. Most manufacturer warranties clearly express that warranty applies to defects in material and/or workmanship only, and cover only the replacement of defective or missing parts. Any damage that occurs to a product after it has shipped from the factory is not the manufacturer's responsibility and is not covered under warranty unless caused by defects in material or workmanship.
 2. Labor is not included in most warranties, nor do manufacturers accept responsibility for loss of time, inconvenience, incidental expenses or material charges.
 3. Any shipping charges incurred in the execution of a warranty claim are the responsibility of the owner.
 4. Warranties extend to the original retail owner only and are not transferable.
 5. Warranty period begins on date of purchase or installation, if it can be proven with an invoice or proof of purchase.
