Presentation: The annual meeting will have a presentation on GenOvis, Canada's national, on-farm genetic evaluation program, followed by a panel discussion with enrolled producers. AGM guests will be able to ask questions about the program's time requirements, processes, on-farm selection and marketing opportunities.

Join us for farm tours immediately following the AGM:

Following lunch at the Fickle Fig, a year-round farmers' market, bakery and bistro, featuring seasonable, sustainable, local, organic farm produce from the Saanich Peninsula, AGM attendees will tour Lorea Tomin's Suffolk and Charollais operation. Lorea markets purebred stock across Canada, as well as supplying lamb direct to restaurants and farmer's markets. Lorea converts 100% of her wool clip into wool products, which she sells locally.

From Lorea's, the group will visit Robin and Richard Herlinveaux at Hazelmere Farm, where vegetable production is combined with raising Hampshire and Texel sheep.

The final farm visit will be Parry Bay Sheep Farm, a mixed farm that has been operating for nearly 40 years in the Metchosin area, and provides pastured lamb year round to many fine butcher shops and restaurants in Victoria. Parry Bay pastures 300 ewes for ten months of the year. Ewes are bred in the fall and come home to be fed hay and grain in early December. Ewes are moved back onto pasture again towards the end of February, with lambs at their side.

Following the tours, everyone is invited for an evening meal at a local restaurant.
