

House Call

By Darden North

Ponder House Press

Delta native Dr. Darden North, an obstetrician and gynecologist with Jackson Healthcare for Women, has plunged into the world of publishing with his first novel House Call. In this murder mystery, North, who grew up in Cleveland, introduces readers to many characters who will seem familiar.

The story surrounding the medical community is set in modern day Mississippi in the fictional town of Montclair. Some of the characters take a few trips to the Delta.

From page one, readers will want to know who did it when a beautiful young nurse is murdered in her bathtub. This page turner will have you quickly reading trying to find the connection between the young nurse and the death of a well-known middle aged physician, who meets his demise after falling from his deer stand while hunting in the Delta.

This book with societal mentions will take you on a suspenseful ride striking up feelings of fear, sadness, joy and—shock. (Denise Grones)
