

The Order of the Creation, Organic Families, and Our Sacred Inheritances

Below are the first three Hebrew words of Genesis 1:1. (The Hebrew words are read from right to left. The English transliterations are read from left to right.)

The BHC Hebrew-English Transliterator is an Exploring Tool we use a lot. It is a great tool beginners can use to become familiar with the Hebrew alphabet and other symbols. It is free and on the BHC Study Tools Page on our website (CLICK HERE).

The transliteration of the first Hebrew word is B e R E / Sh I Y T.

1. Notice that it took 3 English words to translate one Hebrew word.
2. The first Hebrew letter (transliterated “B”) is a prefix.
3. The last two Hebrew letters (transliterated “YT”) are a suffix.
4. Between the prefix and suffix are the letters of the root word “R / Sh.” They are the letters for the word “ROSH” which means “head” or “first.”

The ancient scribes placed this word first for a specific reason. It signals that this is “the head of the story.” By placing Elohim as the third word, they highlighted the importance of understanding the “order of things” in this story. It is divided into three sections.

Section One (Places)

1. Above the Surface of the Deep Water
2. Skies
3. Dry Ground & Seas

Section Two (Hosts)

4. Grasses, Plants, and Fruit Trees are on the Dry Ground.
5. Sun, Moon, and Stars are in the Skies.

6. Large Water Creatures, Small Water Creatures, and Winged Flying Creatures are in the Seas or on the Dry Ground.
7. Large Animals, Small Animals, Wild Animals, and the ADAM (a Human Family) are on the Dry Ground.

Section Three (Time)

8. Shabbat (Day Seven)

Nature

Numbers 1 through 7 are what people usually call “nature.” The Human Family (ADAM) is part of nature.

1. Humans are creatures that are dependent on the Dry Ground for survival – just like the animals.
2. The animals are blessed and told to “be fruitful and multiply.”
3. The humans are blessed and told to “be fruitful and multiply.” Being fruitful and multiplying requires one male and one female human.

In today’s confused and polarized political environment, I will call “the Family” in this story an “Organic Family.” “Organic” means this is a family with two humans who have the reproductive functions to create a new human life. In the context of this ancient scroll called “the Torah,” “creating new human lives and raising them to maturity to become functioning members of their own Families,” is so important that it is a sacred obligation placed on all humans by Elohim.

As I said in my previous email, “The problem is that “we are HUMANS!!! An entire nation of humans cooperating? What are the odds?”

1. The odds are 100% that humans will always have problems. Elohim created them with the power to create solutions to those problems. But humans must be taught by other humans how to use the power to create.
2. The odds are 100% that humans will have conflicts with each other. Elohim created them with the power to repair their relationships with each other. Once again, humans must be taught by other humans how to transform conflicts into opportunities to create or strengthen their relationships.
3. The odds are 100% that every week Shabbat will arrive. Humans must be taught how to gather, retell their sacred stories, and share their life experiences on Shabbat.

4. Each home is the designated place for a father and mother to teach and mentor each child about their “Sacred Inheritances” which they have received from Elohim and their ancestors.

The Challenges

- The first major challenge for many parents, grandparents, and great grandparents will be learning how to be the type of parent described in these sacred stories – before they can function as that kind of parent.
- The second major challenge is that anyone with a computer or smartphone in America is literally “living in an Infosphere war zone.” “Their minds” are relentlessly being targeted by dangerous predators, plus thousands of corporations and other groups who are spreading misinformation, propoganda, and brain hacking weapons constantly online!
- Using the Tov Standard of Elohim, the third major challenge is America’s institutions – government, economic, educational, and religious – have proven to be incapable of protecting American families. The change must begin in individual families that connect and network to take Lives 1st actions. This must become a top priority backed by our individual commitment to our own families!
