Constructed in 1839, The Lyceum (our host) was built in the Greek Revival style of architecture to be Alexandria, Virginia's venue for lectures, scientific experiments, and other educational activities. It has been used as a residence, a Civil War hospital, an office building, and even the very first Bicentennial Center of the country.

The display area for cars in the show is in the parking lot to the left of the building. Please park the car you are showing there.
