Sites and Places of Interest in Athens

Acropolis of Athens

The Acropolis, and the Parthenon in particular, is the most characteristic monument of the ancient Greek civilization.

Put the best of science, art and philosophy together in one creation and you have the definitive monument of human civilization.

UNESCO calls it the symbol of World Heritage. The world calls it the Athenian Acropolis!

New Acropolis Museum

The new Acropolis Museum has a total area of 25,000 square meters, with exhibition space of over 14,000 square meters, ten times more than that of the old museum on the Hill of the Acropolis.

The Acropolis Museum is an archaeological museum focused on the findings of the archaeological site of the Acropolis of Athens. The museum was built to house every artifact found on the rock and on its feet, from the Greek Bronze Age to Roman and Byzantine Greece. It also lies on the archaeological site of Makrygialos and the ruins of a part of Roman and early Byzantine Athens.

National Archaeological Museum of Athens

The National Archaeological Museum of Athens is the largest archaeological museum in Greece and one of the most important museums in the world devoted to ancient Greek art.

Its abundant collections, with more than 11,000 exhibits, provide a panorama of Greek civilization from the beginnings of Prehistory to Late Antiquity.

Sites and Places of Interest in Santorini

Akrotiri

Akrotiri is a Minoan Bronze Age settlement on the volcanic Greek island of Santorini (Thera). The settlement was destroyed in the Thera eruption about 1627 BCE and buried in volcanic ash, which preserved the remains of fine Frescoes and many objects and artworks. The settlement has been suggested as a possible inspiration for Plato's story of Atlantis. The site has been excavated since 1967. The excavations at Akrotiri have uncovered one of the most important prehistoric settlements of the Aegean.

Sites and Places of Interest in Hydra

Hydra's Historic Archives and Museum

Founded in 1918, the Historic Archives and Museum of Hydra moved to its current, specially constructed location in 1972. Supervised by the Ministry of Education, the archives gathers and catalogs all documents related to Hydra, particularly the history, culture, and tradition of the island. Today the collection includes some 20,000 original manuscripts, codices books, and other historic rare documents and materials. The museum displays artifacts from national and Hydriot history and culture, as well as paintings by well-known artists.

Bratsera Hotel

Bratsera, in Greece, is a family-friendly Hydra hotel offering a beautiful courtyard swimming pool, industrial chic interiors and good breakfasts. The hotel is located 160m from the hydrofoil/catamaran dock, on the left just past the Amalour bar. The hotel's style is industrial chic, which won its original architect the 1996 Europa Nostra award for the conversion. Sponge-diving photographs and artefacts in the common areas form a veritable museum of this once-vital Hydriot enterprise. The fair-sized courtyard swimming pool, the only hotel pool on Hydra, used to be the washing-and-bleaching vat for the sponges.
