Q13 What does your teacher do that helps you learn?

Answered: 12 Skipped: 6

1	There is a range of learning activities include in class - one of the most challenging being the negotiation/crisis simulations. The teacher provides us with videos which create the foundation for our negotiation skills and research in which we put to test in the simulation. I think that this learning pattern is simple yet extremely effective. The homework load is also carefully adjusted to allow us to focus on preparing for the simulation instead of writing up essay after essay.	1/20/2015 9:29 AM
2	gives us challenging but interesting exercises to do homework load is not overwhelming or underwhelming provides helpful feedback holds insightful discussions in class on current events and crises in the past, encourages us to share our opinions	1/20/2015 9:29 AM
3	I think the way that we learn in theory (in the form of writing or lecture) and then we are forced to put that into action really instills that lesson in our minds. It is difficult to forget what you learned when you've had it pounded in to you.	1/20/2015 9:26 AM
4	Dr. CP provides interesting simulations that give us hands on experience while keeping the course entertaining. His knowledge and experience in the field helps nature our abilities.	1/20/2015 9:26 AM
5	The various activities, such as international negotiation in the beginning of the year,and the press conferences	1/20/2015 8:04 AM
6	We often have discussions on the materials presented, and are challenged by very exhilarating and intriguing simulations. These are great opportunities to directly apply knowledge or skills in previous classes to a circumstance as close to reality as possible	1/19/2015 8:47 AM
7	His simulations and his activities help portray/put into perspective the many situations that one may come into contact with, and how to effectively deal with them. The examples that he uses to show the concepts also drive the idea home.	1/19/2015 8:38 AM
8	Simulations and exercises	1/19/2015 8:37 AM
9	He makes the class extremely interesting by being enthusiastic and giving us thought-provoking assignments.	1/19/2015 8:37 AM
10	A lot of simulations to help understanding and actually being in the situation.	1/19/2015 8:37 AM
11	Simulations are both stimulating and extremely interesting!	1/19/2015 8:36 AM
12	Fun simulations and projects.	1/19/2015 8:36 AM

Q14 What else could your teacher do to help you with your learning?

1	Occasionally, I think providing some optional readings would be helpful, as we did go over texts in the beginning of the year, but the habit slowly died down and we resorted to videos. For those less experienced in the class content, maybe going over a little more theory or skill would help.	1/20/2015 9:29 AM
2	I feel like more readings or examples would be helpful. Not that I think we need anymore assigned homework or readings, but perhaps just recent examples of what is being discussed in class so that we can really understand these things in action.	1/20/2015 9:26 AM
3	Though not necessary, perhaps have one or two classes where we are taught a summarized set of skills we could reach to. The videos are helpful, but by now, they have incorporated into our simulations just not that we are sure of.	1/20/2015 9:26 AM
4	Provide some more feedback on possible improvements.	1/19/2015 8:47 AM
5	N/A	1/19/2015 8:38 AM
6	Bring more candy! Seriously though, this is my favorite class.	1/19/2015 8:37 AM
7	Keep the hands on activities like simulations coming!	1/19/2015 8:36 AM
8	Nothing really. Maybe give some lectures personally from time to time.	1/19/2015 8:36 AM
