

Bronwen Chisholm always enjoyed reading and even dabbled in writing, but didn't consider it as a career until she reached her forties. With her family growing up, she decided to allow her creativity to flourish. In 2015, following the deaths of her parents, she was inspired to publish three Pride and Prejudice Variations. Since then she has released three more including her new release, Mrs. Collins' Lover. In the meanwhile, she has held the position of vice president of the Riverside Writers and organizes the Riverside Young Writers, both in Fredericksburg, as well as being a member of James River Writers in Richmond and Lake Authors of the Wilderness.
