November is a transitional time of year. It's supposed to be a good time to "take stock" - to think about being thankful for the events of the past year, and of looking forward in hope to the coming of a new year. Being a disciple implies that one has to make hard choices. We will not always get what we want. We may find ourselves at odds with others who do not share our values. It's not easy. It's never easy to do what needs to be done, to say what needs to be said, to work things out when it bothers us to compromise. Jesus never lost His sense of direction and purpose - and in that sense He was prepared for whatever came. His love of the Father was integrated into all that He said and did and all that He became. There was no event, no person, and no circumstance that ever separated Him from His Father. We should "look to the signs" not in terms of destruction and tragedy, but in the joyful hope of Christ's saving Love. We must continue to do our best to counter terror with courage, to work for peace even now at a time of war and a threat of war, to trust in God when so many good people have suffered and died. God is not asleep, nor indifferent to our world. Things may never be right with this world. But they are not hidden from God, even if God seems to be delaying in rescuing us.. As we approach the end of another event-filled year, we are again reminded that God has given us all we need to take hold of the Kingdom.
