MENTEE News and Notes

(The following women are previous Live Your Dream recipients)

Nealmetria Loper - Congratulations on receiving the Michigan Community Health Worker Alliance (MiCHWA) Certification Training Program Scholarship Award! The training, which is on Zoom is manageable for her and will result in a certification that will lead to more job opportunities.

Tonesia Nesbitt has taken a short break from classes but will be resuming her nursing Clinicals in March. She is a recent recipient of the WISP (Women's Independent Scholarship Program) Award of $2000 for each semester she stays in school until graduation! Congratulations, Tonesia, on this wonderful scholarship!

Delia Mustin is purchasing a home! She works with her children keeping them healthy and making sure they do their schoolwork. Delia is not currently in school but hopes to go back this spring semester.

Jeritha Brown - Her new home is lovely and SIGP member Mary Ellen Burke will be bringing drapes to her – the final touch! Jeritha is doing dialysis three days a week, 2 ½ hours each time. SIGP will be walking to support Jeritha in the National Kidney Foundation Walk on Sunday, May 21 at the Detroit Zoo. Details will be in the April edition of The Pointer.

Danyelle Easley continues in school while working for a bank. Her daughter is a sophomore at Michigan State University. I reached out to her after the February shooting to ensure her daughter was all right. Danyelle drove to MSU at 1 a.m. to pick up her daughter and bring her home for the rest of that week. What a tragic event at one of Michigan's most popular universities.

International Concerns

By SIGP Member Carol Hofer

How incredible that during my Peace Corps stint in Damongo, Ghana, West Africa, I never fully realized the crying need of young girls and women. In my first year of teaching, the classes were filled with boys. My second year saw a sprinkling of girls. It was not the custom in the region to send girls for schooling past the early grades—if at all. But that injustice was not my focus. I was struggling just to stay one step ahead of my students, having landed in a remote village with the school just starting up and at first offering no books, no paper, no pencils, no lab equipment. A crash course in science teaching during our training — somewhat useless at that moment — was supposed to prepare me for the task. Oh, boy.

Throughout the market area and in the village many females did not speak English. Since all schools are taught in English, it was clear they had no schooling. This too often remains the case today, with the literacy rate of the region (33%) remaining the lowest in the country, although more girls now are permitted by their families to attend classes.

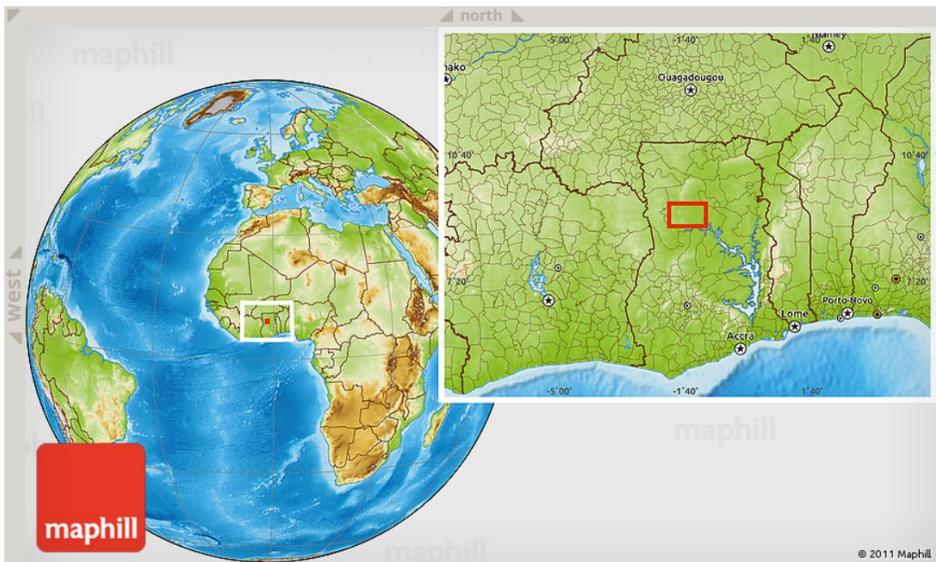

But in remote areas, the tribal traditions often rule. A young girl is promised to an older man in marriage. Why educate her in reading or math? Cooking, cleaning, farming, and care of children are her only destiny, regardless of poverty or her own aptitude in other areas. This is precisely why Soroptimist International of Grosse Pointe (SIGP) is supporting students at St. Anne High School for Girls (SAGISS) in Damongo. Education is key.

Toni Adams, Kerri Green, Rosanne Morrow, and I, all SIGP members, have made the trip to Ghana in recent years to visit the school. We encountered dedicated, promising students. Their uniforms were neat and clean; they appeared healthy and enthusiastic. We snapped photos of the school, the students doing tribal dances to welcome us, the food, and the nearby game reserve, a popular tourist site.

But what is not shown in our photos is what we did not see. This is a country where over a half a million girls aged 19 and younger gave birth (some as young as ten years), between 2016 and 2020. Many of these girls live in areas of extreme poverty far from town. The earning power in remote areas can dwindle to only a dollar or so a day. Females remain at risk of gender-based violence, sexual exploitation, terrible infections, and lives of continuous backbreaking toil. They may become moms much too early when they are not ready physically or emotionally.

Some of our Ghana girls come from similar backgrounds. When they are given a chance to improve their lives and the lives of their families and communities the benefits can be enormous. SIGP is offering them a wonderful, life-changing opportunity. God bless SIGP.

Here are two maps to give you a sense of where Damongo, Ghana, West Africa, is located. Our club concerns itself with the education of women and girls at the local, regional and global levels.

Fifty-year old Soroptimist Time Capsule opened in 2021

Our club was fortunate to have Lisa Mangiafico, associate senior director for records and risk management at SIA headquarters, speak at our February meeting. She not only gave us a glimpse of Soroptimist's beginnings, but also shared the contents of the 50-year-old Soroptimist time capsule she was honored to open.

The time capsule, created in 1971, was opened in January 2021. It included six cylinders, found in good condition, wrapped in foil. The cylinders held newspaper articles of the event, event programs and transcripts, a copy of the region's history, and letters of thanks and congratulations, including one from then California Governor Ronald Reagan.

Two cylinders held capsules of club histories and prophecies for Soroptimist's 100th anniversary in 2021. Strips of paper had been tightly rolled and placed in empty veterinary pill capsules. There were more than 100 capsules in the two cylinders. Since each strip had been tightly rolled for almost 50 years, relaxing each to handle it was next to impossible. In the end, Lisa decided to place each strip in an inert archival polyester sleeve for preservation and storage. Each side of the paper slip can be read without handling the paper itself. In most cases, there was a short club history on one side, and predictions on the other. Some were handwritten, others typed; most on plain white paper. Some were written vertically like in the photo at left.

Many of the club histories and even the prophecies reflected the lack of focus on women and girl issues prevalent in Soroptimist clubs in the 1950s and 1960s. But others had a forward focus on advancing women.

Here are a few prophecies: SI of Sonora: A Soroptimist President in the White House. SI of Lodi: typed in at the bottom... Yes! That astronaut is a Soroptimist! (And yes, Soroptimist does have an astronaut among our members: Heide Stefanyshyn-Piper joined SI of Oak Harbor, Washington, in 2017, and flew on two space shuttle missions as a mission specialist.) In fact, there were many mentions in the prophecies about space—having a Soroptimist club on the moon, and space missions to other planets. Of course, at that time the U.S. was heavily engaged in its space program. SI of Redding: Teen problems, population decrease, generation gap, no smog, women will be the deciding factor of world problems—helping to make policies of the world.

The time capsule was placed inside the base of a bronze bust of Violet Richardson Ward. The Violet Richardson Award honored young women between the ages of 14 and 18 for volunteer action such as fighting drugs, crime, and violence, cleaning up the environment and working to end discrimination and poverty. The award is named after Violet Richardson, the president of the first Soroptimist club in Alameda County, California, in 1921.

At the time of its creation, the sculptor, Mr. Ono deRuyter said of the bust of Violet Richardson Ward, "I have sculptured her larger than life-size because she is large in her thinking and in her living." The bronze portrait was cast at the San Francisco art foundry.
