To our friends and loyal guests and to all those that had planned to spend time with your family with us during the holidays:

We are sorry that we cannot honor your reservations and understand that this is a serious disappointment for you and your families. Please know that we have done everything that we could to avoid this situation.

On December 20, we were informed of a dispute with the owner of the property, Hawkins Properties, dating back to the spring when the State of North Carolina forced us to close. There have been no issues since we were able to re-open in July. We assumed we would be able to resolve this issue after the holidays. Unfortunately, we were given only 48 hours.

We have not only had to inform our staff that they were out of work two days before Christmas, but we also are forced to inform our valued and loyal guests of this disappointment.

To those of you with reservations, we sincerely apologize. Unfortunately, we currently have no way to contact you at this time.

I can be contacted personally at jason@logcabinhighlands.com.

Thank you all for your support over the last six years.

Happy Holidays,

Jason.
