
Indiana woman drives 9 hours to adopt RCAS dog

by Rhonda Blackstone

On Oct. 28 Randolph County Animals Shelter received an email about Jasmine, a 1-year-old Lab mix that was seen on Petfinder about possible adoption. The adopter fell in love with her and wanted to adopt.

After talking with adopter by phone, Sherry Allen drove nine hours from Monticello, Ind., to adopt her. She had lost her pet a year ago from old age and decided to give another animal a wonderful home. She said something about her just made her fall so hard.

We were excited Jasmine found a home but also excited someone was willing to drive nine hours to adopt her. Ms. Allen had already gone to the pet store and had a backseat full of goodies for Jasmine. Jasmine was happy as well. Her tail was wagging, she was playing, and was ready to ride.

Stories like this really warm our hearts, and it makes us proud of what we do. We send a lot of animals up North to 501c3 rescues, and we do not get to meet the adopters. We see pictures, but being able to meet the adopter is wonderful.

Thank you, Ms. Allen, for driving all that way to give one of our fur babies a loving home.
