MEDICAL FLIGHT PROCEDURE

Once our team is called to action, our Communications Center gives the evacuation notice to our aviation carrier; the patient and family are prepared for med-flight departure. After pre-flight and medical consultations, all principals involved are updated as to schedule and departure. Arrangements for family members to travel with the patient are made. The receiving medical facility and ground ambulance are coordinated. Our competent crew, medical staff and fully equipped aircraft will get you there when you need to be there. The air ambulance flight has the highest trained flight medical personnel and the latest state of the art medical and cardiac med-flight equipment on board. Our Central Communications Center tracks the med-flight progress in real-time and provides the instant tracker, e-mail and phone communication to the families and receiving hospital as the patient's flight progresses and exact time of arrival. As the patient arrives at the destination, the flight nurse updates the in-flight medical reports to our Central Communications Center.

With over 36 years of experience, thousands of flights with no loss of life or air mishaps.

It's The Best Safety Record in the Industry!

There When You Need Us!

“The crew was extremely competent and caring of my mother's needs. Communication was good and using the internet tracking was great. The cost was competitive and the staff was a great benefit to our family. They communicated well and showed compassion.”
