PARKING:

Parking permits are $6 per day for students. Permits can be purchased at the time of registration. Guests coming to the ensemble concerts on Friday or Saturday will have to pay for parking at one of the parking lots by the Music Building or risk being ticketed. Students who have driven to camp must notify Dr. Anna Jensen at the time of registration. Festival participants are not allowed to drive their cars during the week. Violation of this Festival regulation will result in immediate dismissal.

A NOTE TO WIND AND BRASS PLAYERS FROM THE BRASS FACULTY:

The camp experience involves many more playing hours per day than most students are used to. This has caused some fatigue and discomfort in the past with wind and especially brass players. You do need to train for camp as though you are a runner preparing for a marathon.

FROM TWO TO FOUR WEEKS BEFORE CAMP begin to play for short periods (12-15 minutes) with rest periods in between. Gradually increase the amount of daily practice as endurance builds up. Build up gradually and also work on your overall physical condition – include some running, swimming or other exercise, get regular sleep. Brass players should do lip slurs, range-building exercises and legato studies. Everyone will benefit from scale studies and sight-reading practice. Anything you play is better than no practice at all.

TO SURVIVE AT CAMP learn to pace yourself, budget your energy in rehearsal. If you double a part, find places to rest in tutti passages – save yourself for exposed parts. Avoid overplaying – driving background parts wastes energy and upsets the ensemble sound. Shorten your practice time but maximize your concentration to make the best use of time. Mark problems in rehearsal and focus on the problems rather than reviewing long passages when you do practice. Resist the temptation to show off with high notes, jazz/rock solos or jungle sound effects.

2020 TYSA EVERGREEN MUSIC FESTIVAL MASTERCLASS/WORKSHOPS
(Must be completed and returned by all musicians by July 1, 2020)

On Wednesday, August 5, 2020 from 10:15 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. all students attending the Evergreen Music Festival will participate in a Masterclass/Workshop with a Master Teacher who is a professional on their instrument. The Master Teachers have been asked to organize the students so that a wide range of technical and musical instruction can be conveyed to all present. Following the morning session, the students will have lunch with the Master Teacher for their instrument then classes will reconvene until 2:00 p.m. for ensemble work or additional demonstrations.

In order for your Master Teacher to prepare an inspiring session he or she will need the information outlined on the enclosed form. This is a requirement for all Evergreen Music Festival Participants.

This will not be a performance, nor will it be an audition. It will be students taking turns playing for each other in what must be a friendly and supportive environment so all can benefit from the points being made and the instruction offered.

Experience has shown that the students who benefit most are those who actively participate. Though time limitations may not allow all to present their demonstration piece, it is expected that all come prepared to do so. Portions or entire movements of serious works written for your instrument are appropriate. Portions of solo works or excerpts from ensembles or orchestra literature on which you would like to receive musical or technical help would also be appropriate.
