

Handwritten text on aged, yellowed paper, likely a ledger or account book. The text is written in a cursive script and is arranged in several lines. The paper shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration. A small black mark is visible on the right side of the page.