Many times, we have been able to save our customers' time and money. At Hohl's we are more concerned about making sure the customer has the proper amounts they need for success. When it comes to seeds, less can be more. We offer perfectly regulated planting charts to assist you in your purchase.

Food Plot 101: Planning for Spring

Winter is the perfect time to start planning your food plot for the upcoming year. First, assess the prior year; what were the weather conditions? Did you fertilize? If so, did you get a soil test done? If you had a soil test done, what was your pH level? Answering these questions can help you start your plan for 2022.

Crop rotation is 1 key element in maintaining healthy food plots. This is obtained easily when you have a few different food plots. If you like our Hohl's Fall Blend (a wonderful mix of brassicas), you should only plant that in the same area no more than 2 years in a row. Wait a minimum of 2 years before planting brassicas in that area again. Look at substituting a perennial for 2-3 years, such as the Hohl's Wildlife Mix or Clover. You can still plant the Hohl's Fall Mix in another food plot.

Tips for Winter

BARN LIME - Keep a bag or two of barn lime in your vehicle in case you get stuck on ice. Pour some around the tires to get traction. When it's too cold for salt to be effective on sidewalks and driveways, use barn lime to prevent slipping – It could prevent an injury.

SALT – Hohl's carries Hi-Way rock salt, sold by the bag or the pallet. We also sell by the bag, Snow Control Ice Melt, which is concrete safe and is environmentally friendly.

BIRDS – Keep your feeders close to walk ways, so you don't have to trudge through snow to fill them. Remember, once you start feeding the birds, they become dependent on you for the winter. Make sure you have a deicer for your bird bath to ensure a supply of fresh water. Save on our customer favorite, Hohl's Premium Wild Bird Seed! Buy 5 bags and save $1 per bag.

OUTDOOR PETS – Straw is a typical choice for bedding. Try Eco Flake pine shavings this winter, less mess, cost effective, and keeps a fresh scent longer.
