42. (Cont'd) early 1900's and reportedly enclosed a previously open air patio/tasting area. All of the windows and doors in this section have been relocated and replaced. The open front porch which hides a new bricked-in cellar entry, the *double door entry, with side and transom lights below a large wooden beam lintel and a large first floor south side opening, which has been infilled with stone, are other alterations and additions. The 1893 Sanborn Map indicates that the winery was heated by steam and that a 1½ story frame office and warehouse bldg. was attached in the front of the cellar and press room. It has since been demolished.

43. (Cont'd) wine maker from Alsace, France, was admitted as equal partner. At about the same time the cellar capacity was increased to 80,000 gallons and the firm of Schaedler and Rhein became one of the largest wineries on K.I. In 1905 it was considered one of the most modern and best equipped cellars on the lakes, their production consisted exclusively of still wines: Catawba, Delaware, Ives Seedling, Sweet Catawba, Port, Angelica, Sherry and Blackberry wine. The company's 28 acre vineyard supplied one-third of the grapes used per year. Wine was stored in 2,000 gallon casks and sold by jobbing, lots and wholesale all sizes from 5 gallons to the largest barrels. It was one of the five island wineries still in operation on the eve of Prohibition but both Schaedler and Rhein died while the 18th Amendment was in effect and it sat idle until 1935. * In that year it was purchased by Mrs. Fawn and became Kamp Kellisle. It has been used since as a bar and restaurant.
