to grow flowers and gardens. She would take me to visit greenhouses when was growing up and I always had a desire to have a place like that to grow interesting plants and flowers. About two years before I married I built my first small greenhouse in my parent's back yard. My father and I ~~tore~~ tore down his garage. We bought some used glass from the Santa Fe Store and built a small greenhouse about twelve feet by twenty feet. After I was married we tore it down and built two larger ones in Gladys's back yard. These burnt down when some coal-oil stoves exploded about 1947 or 8 and we decided to build the large greenhouse that we have today.

Woodson Ward and I met while we were in Junior High School. It was located where the current Sixth Grade building is now. We were in class from then and then High School.

Gilb was the least of my worries at this time so I we didn't have the slightest idea that I would marry his sister and we would be brother-in-law in the future. I visited his home several times but don't remember ever seeing his sister, Gladys.

I first noticed Gladys several years later when Woodson and Red Goff, the pastor of the
