

Source: This non-scientific assessment of global industry adoption levels of formal business architecture was derived from an analysis of Business Architecture Guild® member profiles. Guild members self-assign to the industry sector or subsector in which they work. This information is open to any Guild member who searches by industry. This analysis evolves over time, but the general rankings have held steady over the past few years. What might lie behind these adoption levels?