

A LOVER'S MOMENT

So many times, when there are feelings to express A woman won't use words, but she will use her eyes and from them, her emotions will flow, like that river called tears

So many times, when her heart is broken
For so long words will go unspoken and those are the times, when all alone, she cries

Those are the moments
When she needs someone
To be gentle and tender
These moments of love, are the ones
That she'll always remember

Talking doesn't always help the situation
Instead, what she needs is, peace and quiet and a little caressing

Please, be careful how you interpret her nuance Don't mistake it for lust, what she really wants to know is are you the kind of man, that a woman can trust

Moments like these is when she needs
Her man to be gentle and kind
These are the moments when she needs
Something more than understanding
These are the moments when Love is so demanding

These are the moments, when lover's play tease
These are the moments when lover's say please
While enfolded in her lover's arms
She wants to stare into his eyes, and hear him say

"..... you're mine, all mine"
Please, satisfy my needs
Please give me all of what I need
Don't stop, until I say please!