

e.version

kirk poffenberger
graphic design & creative solutions p: 330.332.1780
soc: Linkedln.com
w: DesignStudioSalem.com
La 20° 53' 14" n | Lo 80° 49' 12" w
02 : 02 : 2017

Winter 2017:
Print Design for a High Tech Product Line and Art Directing Old-World Craftsmanship

Strange Observations about One's Self

I enjoy hot tea with sugar, in the morning especially.

I also enjoy hot coffee, but it can be any time of day. I like it black if it's fresh, but sometimes add cream and sugar. However, for me, black coffee and coffee with cream and sugar are different drinks entirely - as different as iced tea and lemonade.

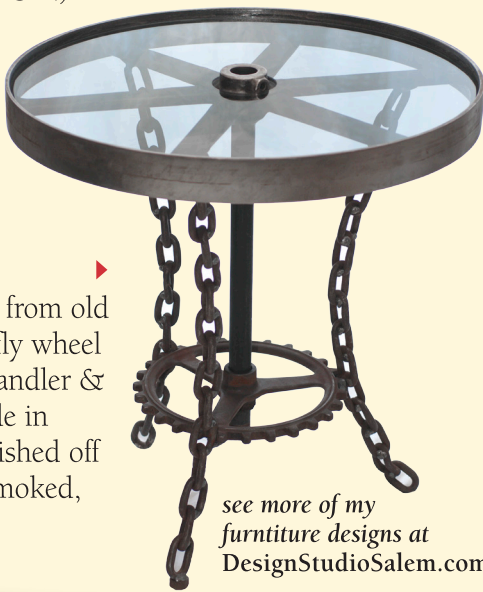

I drink iced tea with or without sugar. But I don't like hot tea without sugar. I don't like hot tea gone cold. Seems like it should just be one step away from being iced tea, but it's not.

By the way, when at restaurants I ask for lemonade, the server often says "no, but we have iced tea"... How is that remotely close to lemonade? It's not! But I always say "Yes, thank you".

Not Andy Rooney

I designed and built a set of (4) bar height stools made with laser-cut steel and live-edge cherry. They are for sale and now on display at Touched gallery in Columbus. (180 W Olentangy St., Powell, OH.)

This table is made from old log-chain legs and a fly wheel from a 1920's era Chandler & Price letterpress, made in Cleveland, Ohio. Finished off with a custom-cut, smoked, glass top.

see more of my furniture designs at DesignStudioSalem.com

"It's kind of fun,
to do the
impossible"

W. Disney

Cut
this out
and stick
it
on your fridge

Chase

what can i design for you today?

now accepting:

