

Balance issues are challenging and complex and can be disabling. My symptoms were whooshing sounds, ringing in the ears, dizziness, unsteadiness, lack of equilibrium, and feeling like I was going to fall (I have experienced two falls.) My primary care physician recommended BalanceMD. I was grateful because my father died of a brain tumor right behind his right ear and exhibited serious balance issues prior to his diagnosis and death; and my mother suffered from vertigo that would actually make her feel like the room was spinning. Dr. Sanders and his team helped rule out a brain tumor. Other diagnoses were made and treatment was initiated to help control and check dizziness and the unsteadiness of lack of equilibrium and feeling like I was going to fall. I am grateful for this medical help because not knowing, in my case, was very frightening and made my condition worse. At this point I have a handle on things. Thank you BalanceMD: to Dr. Sanders and his entire team. Thanks to my doctor for sending me to the right place.
