Biography

Lynwood Allen Pangborn passed away peacefully at his daughter's home on February 23, 2023, at age 87. Lynwood was a husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, brother, uncle, and friend. He dealt with diabetes since middle age, and then dementia and Parkinson's disease came along in more recent years. He met these ailments with determination and showed his courage in facing life's challenges. He was born and raised in Bad Axe, graduating from high school in 1954. He met the love of his life, Sharon, while in high school. They married on August 22, 1959, at the Baptist Church in Bad Axe. They remained in Bad Axe to build their life together and raise their family. Lynwood was always proud of his four children, Larry, Teena (Rick), Terry (Lori), and Garry (Elizabeth). He and Sharon enjoyed attending their kids' sporting events and were faithful Hatchet fans. The grandchildren came along, and they were precious... Trevor, Jordan, Zachary, Dylan, Morgan, Allison, and Chloe. He was more recently blessed with three great-grandchildren, Wesley, Timothy, and Lucy, who also brought him so much happiness. Lynwood was given the gift of working with his hands. Whether dealing with a vehicle or house issue or anything that needed to be fixed, he could do it. This aptitude led him to work at the Ford garage and then later in maintenance at Hamill Manufacturing. After that plant's closure, he went on to be a machinist at Walbro Corporation until he retired. During this time of retirement, however, he really didn't slow down. He loved travelling to Grand Rapids and Tennessee to spend time with family and take in as many of the grandchildren's events as possible. On the home front, mowing the lawn and tending to the garden, especially sunflowers, were enjoyable activities. During other seasons there were always projects to do, as well as snow plowing to be done all around town. He very much appreciated invitations to lunch or supper by family and friends.
