

Families of Thénisy, France in the Ancestry of Mathieu Savant (Jr.)

Thénisy, Mons-en-Montois, Dontilly and Bescherelles are a cluster of small rural villages in the modern French département of Seine-et-Marne, in the region of Île-de-France, approximately 60 miles southeast of Paris. Before the French Revolution of 1789, however, they straddled the former border between Île-de-France and the historic wine and champagne producing region of Champagne. Thénisy was in Champagne, while the three other villages sat officially in Île-de-France. This is reflected in the fact that many Thénisy inhabitants are described as “vignerons”, or viticulturists/winemakers, in the ancient vital records of the town’s parish books.

(23 June 2013)

The first mention of the village of Thénisy dates back to the 11th century. Its name is derived from the Latin Talsiniacum: “the domain of Talsinius”. Construction of the parish church in the village, Église de la Sainte-Trinité (“Church of the Holy Trinity”) began in the 1500’s; this is the church where many of the baptisms and marriages mentioned on the following pages actually took place.

A large number of the houses and farm buildings in the town also date back to the period when the Savant family lived here. The oldest house still standing in the village carries an inscription over its door: “G. 1677 B.”, thought to be the year of construction, surrounded by the initials of the owner or builder. A Bardeau, perhaps?

The parish of Thénisy was officially established in 1594, although the register books belonging to the parish contain entries beginning in 1580. These parish books are remarkably well-preserved and detailed, which makes a reconstruction of the early families of the village relatively easy. Today, little trace of these families seems to have survived in the town: several of the early names in the following pages are absent from contemporary gravestones in the parish cemetery.

MATHIEU SAVANT (Sr.)

1. Mathieu SAVANT,¹ son of Jean SAVANT and Marguerite MONATTE, was born about 1692, probably in the parish of Saint-Barthélémy of the town of Félines, Auvergne, France,² died in Bescherelles, Île-de-France, France, on probably either 5 or 6 Apr 1738³ and was buried on 6 Apr 1738 in the neighboring village of Dontilly, Île-de-France, France.³

Mathieu SAVANT first appears in the Thénisy parish records at the time of his marriage to widow Françoise BARDEAU, on 28 Sep 1717. He is described as the son of Jean SAVANT and Marguerite MONATTE, and as coming from the parish of Saint-Barthélémy in the town of Félines, within the Archdiocese of Le Puy in the region of Auvergne, France. The marriage record is accompanied by a text, in Latin, from the church of Saint-Barthélémy granting permission to the church of Thénisy to perform the marriage. There is also a rough translation of the text in French with a brief note recommending Mathieu to the church of Thénisy, explaining that he's an honest 'boy' (i.e. bachelor) from a good family with every chance of finding a good situation in his new home, as evidenced by his impeccable behavior and social standing back in Félines.

Félines is located today in the département of Haute-Loire, and still well within the modern borders of Auvergne. According to the website of the Félines town hall, the name of the town can be traced back to the Latin word Figlinae, which designates a clay pit (or quarry) for pottery works, and attests to the age of the settlement and almost certainly to the occupation of its early inhabitants.

Unfortunately, the earliest parish records of Félines appear to be lost – or at least unavailable online – so it hasn't been possible to locate records concerning Mathieu in Félines.

The Félines records available online begin in 1737, long after Mathieu (Sr.) had moved north to Thénisy. In these early records, there are only scant mentions of the name Savant (spelled Sçavant or more often Sauvant) and occasional mentions of members of the Monatte family (spelled Maunatte).

It's hard to say why Mathieu SAVANT left his hometown and moved hundreds of miles north to Thénisy. He is described as a winemaker ("vigneron") in the very first records mentioning him in Thénisy, but later appears to have changed professions to become a sawyer ("scieur de long") by the time of his second marriage. This particular type of sawing involves one man, the top sawyer, balancing himself on top of a piece of timber placed over a sawpit, with a second man, the bottom sawyer, working from inside the pit down below. The change in profession ultimately caused Mathieu's demise: his burial record, although difficult to read, appears to indicate he was involved in an accident where a large piece of lumber he was sawing fell and caused his death.

Mathieu married (1) Françoise BARDEAU,¹ widow of Nicolas GAUCHER and daughter of François BARDEAU and Jeanne PETITHOMME, on 28 Sep 1717 in Thénisy.¹ Françoise was baptized in Thénisy on 5 Oct 1678⁴ and buried there on 12 Feb 1727.⁵

Children from this marriage (all baptized in Thénisy) were:

- 2 F i. Marguerite SAVANT⁶ was baptized on 23 Oct 1718⁶ and buried in Thénisy on 1 Nov 1718.⁷

- 3 M ii. Pierre SAVANT⁸ was baptized on 22 Nov 1719,⁸ died on 3 Jun 1786 in Bescherelles, Île-de-France, France⁹ at age 66, and was buried in Dontilly, Île-de-France, France on 4 Jun 1786.⁹ Pierre married (1) Thérèse FADIN,¹⁸ daughter of Nicolas FADIN and Jeanne MERCIER, on 20 Feb 1746 in Nangis, Île-de-France, France.¹⁸ Thérèse was baptized on 16 Dec 1725 in Ozouer-le-Repos, Île-de-France, France¹⁹ and was buried on 31 Oct 1747 in La Chapelle-Rablais, Île-de-France, France.²⁰ Pierre married (2) Françoise GUILLEVERT,²¹ daughter of Nicolas GUILLEVERT and Marie RENARD, in Dontilly on 28 Feb 1753.²¹ Françoise was born possibly in Bescherelles and probably died there after 5 Jul 1791, when she consented to the marriage of her daughter, Victoire Rosalie SAVANT, to Antoine Barthélémy DUMONT.²² Pierre SAVANT was only 18 years old by the time both of his parents had died, and he moved between a number of villages in the area, working as a farm laborer or carter throughout his life. Pierre SAVANT and Françoise GUILLEVERT appear to only have given birth to daughters, which could help explain why the name Savant never ‘took root’ in this area.

- 4 M iii. Mathieu SAVANT¹⁰ was baptized on 6 Feb 1722.¹⁰

After Françoise BARDEAU’s death, Mathieu married (2) Marie PIOU,¹¹ daughter of Guillaume PIOU and Thomasse LE SOURD, on 14 Feb 1730 in Provins, Champagne, France.¹² Marie was born about 1692, a native of the town of Thorigny as indicated by the marriage record,¹³ and was buried on 9 May 1733 in Thénisy.¹³ It’s worth noting that Mathieu SAVANT’s marriage record to Marie PIOU is the only indication we have at this point of Mathieu’s age: the record states that he is 38 years of age “or thereabouts” at the time of the marriage. Mathieu and Marie do not appear to have had children together.

Mathieu next married (3) widow Anne LEROY,¹⁴ daughter of Jean LEROY and Marie JACOB, on 26 Nov 1736 in Mons-en-Montois, Île-de-France, France.¹⁴ Anne, who was roughly 25 years older than Mathieu, was baptized on 12 Dec 1666 in Mons-en-Montois¹⁵ and was buried there on 6 Mar 1740.¹⁶ Anne had married (1) on 1 Feb 1689 in Mons-en-Montois, Pierre COUSSON (born about 1668, son of Grégoire COUSSON and Philippine LE LONG, buried in Mons-en-Montois on 7 Dec 1731). Pierre COUSSON and Anne LEROY were the godparents of Mathieu SAVANT’s first child, Marguerite.

BARDEAU

François Bardeau

The Bardeau family figures prominently in Thénisy from the very earliest records dating back to 1580 when records for this parish begin, until the mid-1700s, when mentions of them become less frequent. It's possible that the family gradually moved away from the village to another area or simply the name 'daughtered out', although the Bardeaus were certainly an important family in the town during their time there.

The spelling Bardeau is for the most part interchangeable with Bardiot – early scribes wrote their best interpretation of what a person was telling them. The –eau and –ot endings are pronounced identically in French: “OH”. Some early French dialects added an “EE” sound immediately after the ‘D’ of Bardeau, which resulted in the ‘Bardiot’ spelling. Other variants are Bardo, Bardieau, Bardot, etc., and it's not unusual to see different spellings used for the same individual.

According to Patrice Langer's online “Généalogie des Familles Langer – Brierre – Levreaux” (<http://gw.geneanet.org/patriceeee?lang=en&m=NOTES>) citing user Stéphane Fournal, the Bardeau family is concentrated primarily in the northern French region of Nord-Pas-de-Calais as well as in the French département of Puy-de-Dôme.

1. Claude BARDEAU¹ was born about 1603 (calculated from age at death)² and was buried on 9 Nov 1677 in Thénisy, Champagne, France.²

Claude married Barbe PATHOIS,³ daughter of Jean PATHOIS and Jeanne BONTOUR, before 1638. Barbe was baptized in Thénisy on 7 Oct 1613, no death or burial record found.⁴

The following children of Claude BARDEAU and Jeanne PATHOIS are all recorded as having been baptized in the Thénisy church (there were possibly others whose baptismal records have not been found):

- F i. Sébastienne BARDEAU⁵, baptized on 9 Feb 1638.⁵
- F ii. Pierrette BARDEAU⁶, baptized on 1 Aug 1639.⁶
- M iii. Claude BARDEAU (baptismal record not found; Claude BARDEAU is described as a brother of François BARDEAU in the record of François's marriage to Jeanne PETITHOMME in 1677).⁷
- 2 M iv. François BARDEAU⁸, baptized on 19 Oct 1645⁹ and buried in Thénisy on 6 Sep 1718.⁸

2. François BARDEAU⁸ (Claude^C) was baptized in Thénisy on 19 Oct 1645⁹ and buried there on 6 Sep 1718.⁸ François was an elder (“syndic”) of the parish of Thénisy and is mentioned as such several times in the records. He was buried inside the parish church, an honor usually reserved for wealthy families or prominent individuals. His burial record indicates that the vicar of the neighboring parish of Mons (known today as Mons-en-Montois) was present at the funeral.

François married Jeanne PETITHOMME,¹⁴ daughter of Nicolas PETITHOMME and Aymée CHAPSON, in Thénisy on 6 Jul 1677.¹⁵ Jeanne was born probably in Thénisy about 1652 (calculated from age at death)¹⁶ and was buried there on 2 Oct 1726.¹⁶

Children of François BARDEAU and Jeanne PETITHOMME (all baptisms in Thénisy):

PATHOIS

1. Jean PATHOIS¹ and his wife Jeanne BONTOUR appear in the earliest records of Thénisy. Given the relative frequency of the names Pathois and Bontour in Thénisy when the records begin, it's likely that both families had resided there for at least a few generations before, as there appear to be several distinct lines of the families in the parish records.

Recorded children of Jean PATHOIS and Jeanne BONTOUR (all baptized in Thénisy, possibly other children):

- M i. Toussaint PATHOIS² was baptized on 29 Sep 1607² and was living on 7 Aug 1638, when he appears as godfather to Bastien PIONNIER in Bastien's record of baptism in Thénisy.³
