 Gospel: Lk 5: 1-11 "Leap of Faith"

There is a hunger in the human mind and heart for certainty in every aspect of life. We want to be sure. We want to be safe. We want to be successful. In the midst of this day-by-day struggle, there is also the search for religious certainty. Our mind asks about the existence of God, about the meaning of life and death, about life after death. Inevitably we are faced with a choice that requires a leap of faith. Faith is not an intrinsic property of human nature. It is more fundamental.

The truth is God has called each of us. Maybe we didn't hear his voice as did Isaiah. Maybe we didn't experience some life-changing conversion like Paul or witness a miraculous sign like the first apostles. But in reality neither do most other people. Sometimes we don't remember or don't even recognize God's invitation. There is no guarantee of success for those who accepted God's invitation, at least not in the usual ways we measure it.

Isaiah responded "Here I am, send me!" Paul said, "But by the grace of God I am what I am and His grace to me has not been ineffective." And the reply of Peter, James and John was simple but eloquent. When they brought their boats to the shore, "they left everything and followed Him".

We too are called. We walk the same walk. The pressures and the difficulties we have are real . And the choice we face requires that same leap of faith.

How do we respond?
