PICKY EATING AT HOME

SOURCE: OFFICE OF HEAD START

Picky eating is often normal for typically developing toddlers. After infancy, when babies usually triple in weight, a toddler's growth — and appetite — tends to slow down. During this time, they start to develop food preferences. Their favorite food one day may hit the floor the next, or a less-preferred food might suddenly become one they can't get enough of. For weeks, a toddler may eat one or two foods — and nothing else. Families' attitudes can often shape a child's experience with food.

Here are strategies to encourage a sense of adventure with eating:

- Focus on making healthy food choices available.
- Don't pressure kids to explore new food choices and tastes.
- Eat family meals together.
- Learn more about the division of responsibility during mealtimes. Adults are responsible for offering different healthy foods while children choose which ones to eat and how much.
- Offer a variety of foods and model healthy eating. This may include offering those foods several times before children finally accept.

• Routines matter!

FLOURIDE A POWERFUL TOOL TO PREVENT TOOTH DECAY

SOURCE: WWW.HEALTHYCHILDREN.ORG

The most common chronic disease of early childhood is responsible for millions of school hours lost each year due to illness—and it is largely preventable.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recognizes that pediatricians are uniquely positioned to provide oral health guidance to families and apply fluoride varnish to prevent disease in an updated clinical report, "Fluoride Use in Caries Prevention in the Primary Care Setting."

"Fluoride has consistently been proven effective at preventing tooth decay, which, when left untreated, can lead to pain, loss of teeth and serious infections," said Melinda B. Clark, MD, FAAP, lead author of the report. "Pediatricians can prevent dental disease by applying fluoride varnish, counseling families on nutrition and how to care for their children's teeth and referring to a dentist."

EARNED INCOME TAX CREDITS

SOURCE: WWW.IRS.GOV

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) helps low- to moderate-income workers and families get a tax break. If you qualify, you can use the credit to reduce the taxes you owe – and maybe increase your refund.

Who Qualifies

You may claim the EITC if your income is low- to moderate. The amount of your credit may change if you have children, dependents, are disabled or meet other criteria.

Military and clergy should review Special EITC Rules because using this credit may affect other government benefits.

If you claim this credit, your refund may be delayed. By law, the IRS must wait until mid-February to issue refunds to taxpayers who claim the Earned Income Tax Credit.
