

Back There, Then: A Historical Genealogical Memoir

Join the Friends of Local History and Special Collections on Saturday October 10 at 1:30 p.m. for an author talk and book signing with Marietta Crichlow, long time DC resident and her daughter Linda Crichlow White, authors of Back There, Then: A Historical Genealogical Memoir.

Recorded by Marietta Crichlow, this book chronicles stories of some Glovers, Garlands, Stevens, Crichlows and others....beginning before the Civil War and tied to Nelson County; Appomattox County; and Lynchburg, Virginia; and continuing in the 20th century to Boston; Duquesne, Pennsylvania, and Washington, DC-notably the LeDroit Park and Petworth neighborhoods. Marietta and family are descended from people who were enslaved by Wilmer McLean in Manassas and Appomattox Court House in Virginia. It was in Wilmer McLean's home in Appomattox that Robert E. Lee surrendered to Ulysses S. Grant in 1865. Our ancestors were there. The stories therein tell some of the trails the family took over the ensuing years.
