42. Further Description of Important Features (Continue on reverse if necessary) This 1 1/2 story, side-gabled house fits somewhere between the hall-and-parlor and I-house folk traditions. Original elements include some 6/6, double-hung windows. A shed roof addition on the north gable wall (probably built by the KIL & T Co.) and a screened, shed roof on the western eave wall, obscure the original structure. A similar house, once stood about 30' northwest of this building.		26. Local Contact Person or Organization Kevin Pape; KI.Hist.Survey		5. Other Name(s) KIL&T Co. Workers House
43. History and Significance This house, located near the south quarry complex, was rented by a number of immigrant quarry workers. The first known family was that of Joseph Feyelelem, a Hungarian immigrant who came to the island in 1902 to work for the KIL&T Co. as a carpenter. They lived here until c. 1908 when they moved to another company house, #54, further south, and now owned		27. Other Surveys in Which Included N/A
44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house is situated on fill built up to provide access to an old lime kiln. A door in its east wall opens to a sheer drop to the quarry below. Hardly visible from the road, the house is surrounded by dense growth of		46. Prepared by Betty Pape & Kevin Pape		5. Other Name(s) KIL&T Co. Workers House
