An Important Preliminary Explanation

The purpose of this text is to present a fair, neutral and unbiased treatment of, and approach to, the Billy Meier case.

The method to achieve a result that is relatively congruent with reality is, by asking all those relevant questions that any sincere scientist or researcher would ask.

Getting at the core of reality and assessing facts, requires an open mind that does not shy away from staying on track, even when the findings contradict current views, beliefs and hypotheses etc.

Unfortunately, the world still greatly lacks people like Archimedes, Galileo Galilei or Einstein, among many others, who were capable of breaking through contemporary prejudices and beliefs, and brought forth new knowledge that led to a "chain reaction" of new findings etc.

Rational thinking is an endless quest to detect and reveal reality, because truth may be found only in facts, i.e. reality.

The truth stands in absolute opposition to any form of belief, because any belief - without exception - is per se, unprovable.

Based on this, the author stresses the fact that he neither intends nor wishes to convince anybody as regards judging or believing the Billy Meier case as being true.

Quoting Billy Meier here may add some elucidation:

"Contrary to conviction or persuasion stands certainty, which originates alone from a given fact and, therefore, from realness, reality and its truth, which may be proven throughout and has nothing to do with a conviction, but is integrated into an effective knowledge as well as into that which is given by, and which is factual through, reality and its truth.

Certainty is a firm, steadfast knowledge that can be proven through the verification of an issue, or through experience and the living of it, and therefore through reality and its truth."

The fact that the author closely collaborates with Billy Meier makes no difference whatsoever concerning the relevance of the following discourse, at least so long as he applies neutrality, logic and an absence of prejudice.

In fact, the familiarity between the author and Billy Meier will turn out to be a great advantage, based on the opportunities of first-hand and long-term observations, impressions, insight and understanding etc.

have a special Well, question here, which reads as follows:

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

What happens to you with the deceased, i.e. with the lifeless bodies?

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

Do you somehow shrink them into coffins and transport them to the next sun, or do you bury them as you would us, because they are simply buried one meter eighty deep into the earth, in cemeteries, or do you somehow cremate them, or do you just totally eliminate them?

Semjase

45. That's another very fancy question, but I can answer it for you:

• How the Plejaren dispose of the dead bodies.

Semjase

46. Earth burial is just as familiar and customary to us as it is on the Earth.

Semjase

47. For this purpose we have special storage facilities away from the inhabited areas.

49. Apart from burial on the however, the total ground, elimination of the dead bodies is not usual.

Semjase

50. Burials are nevertheless things of individual requests, so one or the other form of burial can be used.

Plejaren Contact Report //-

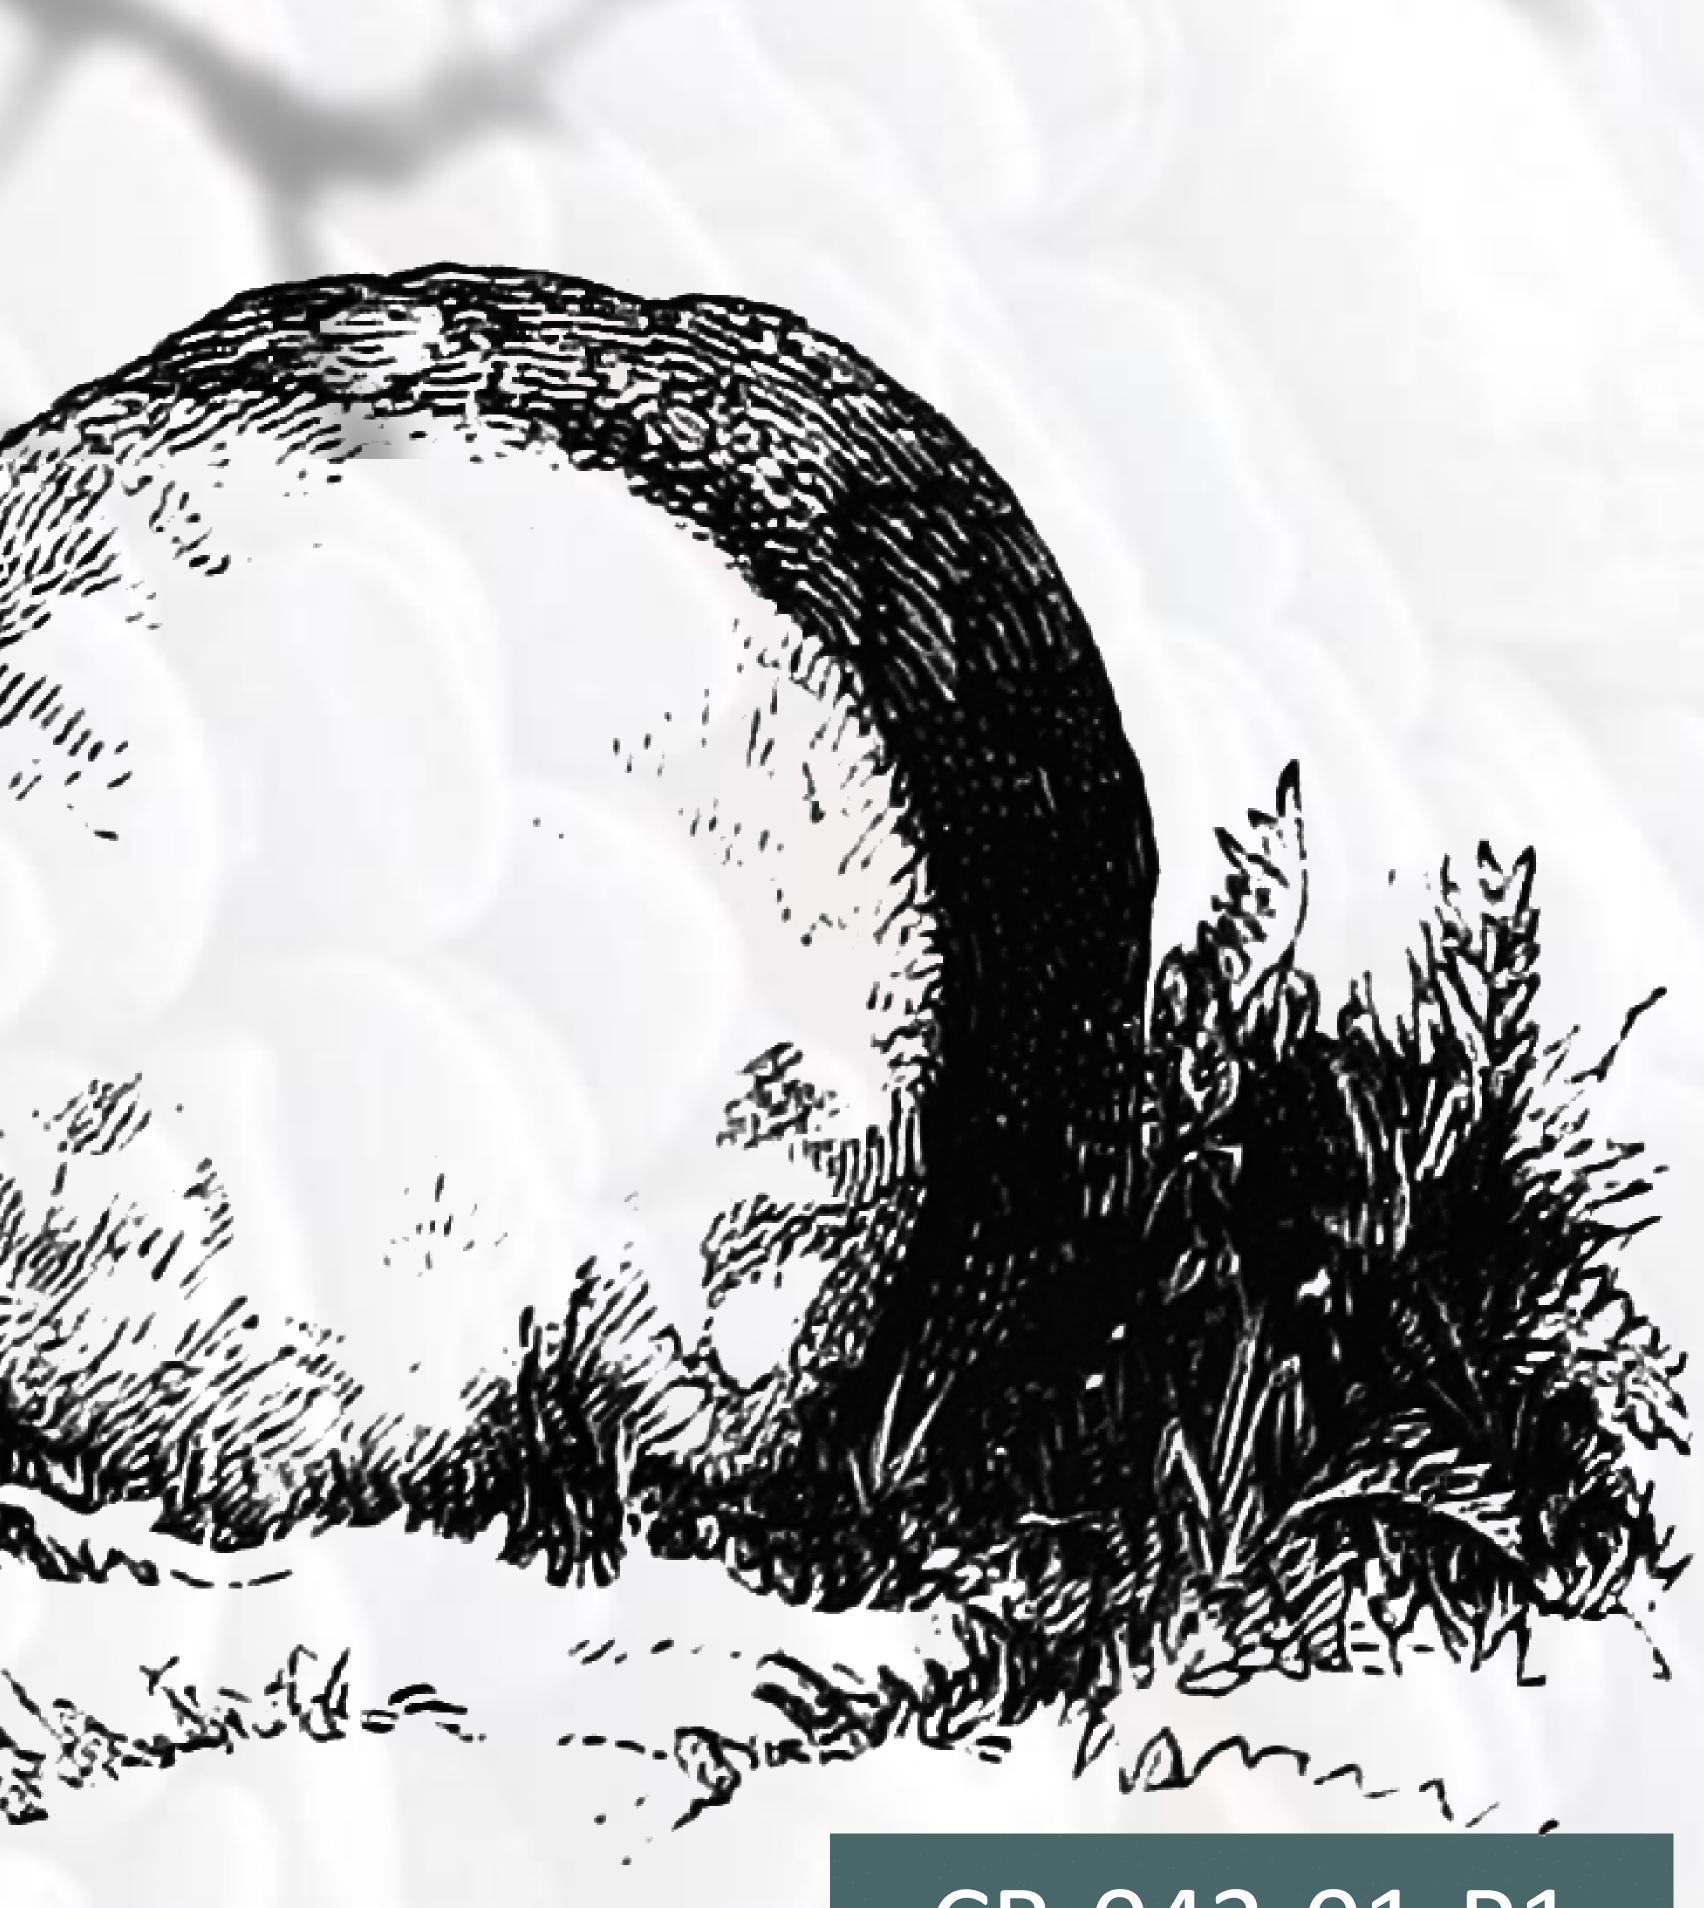

The most common way of disposing of a dead body in Plejaren's world is by burial. However, if they wish, they will also dispose of the dead bodies by cremation.

times we ient maintained very, very rare when such a ired.

98. Only areas that could not be cultivated were occupied with larger and several types of buildings at the same time, with buildings that you would call with factories, surveillance systems and beam-ship ports, etc.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

And who works in factories?

Semjase

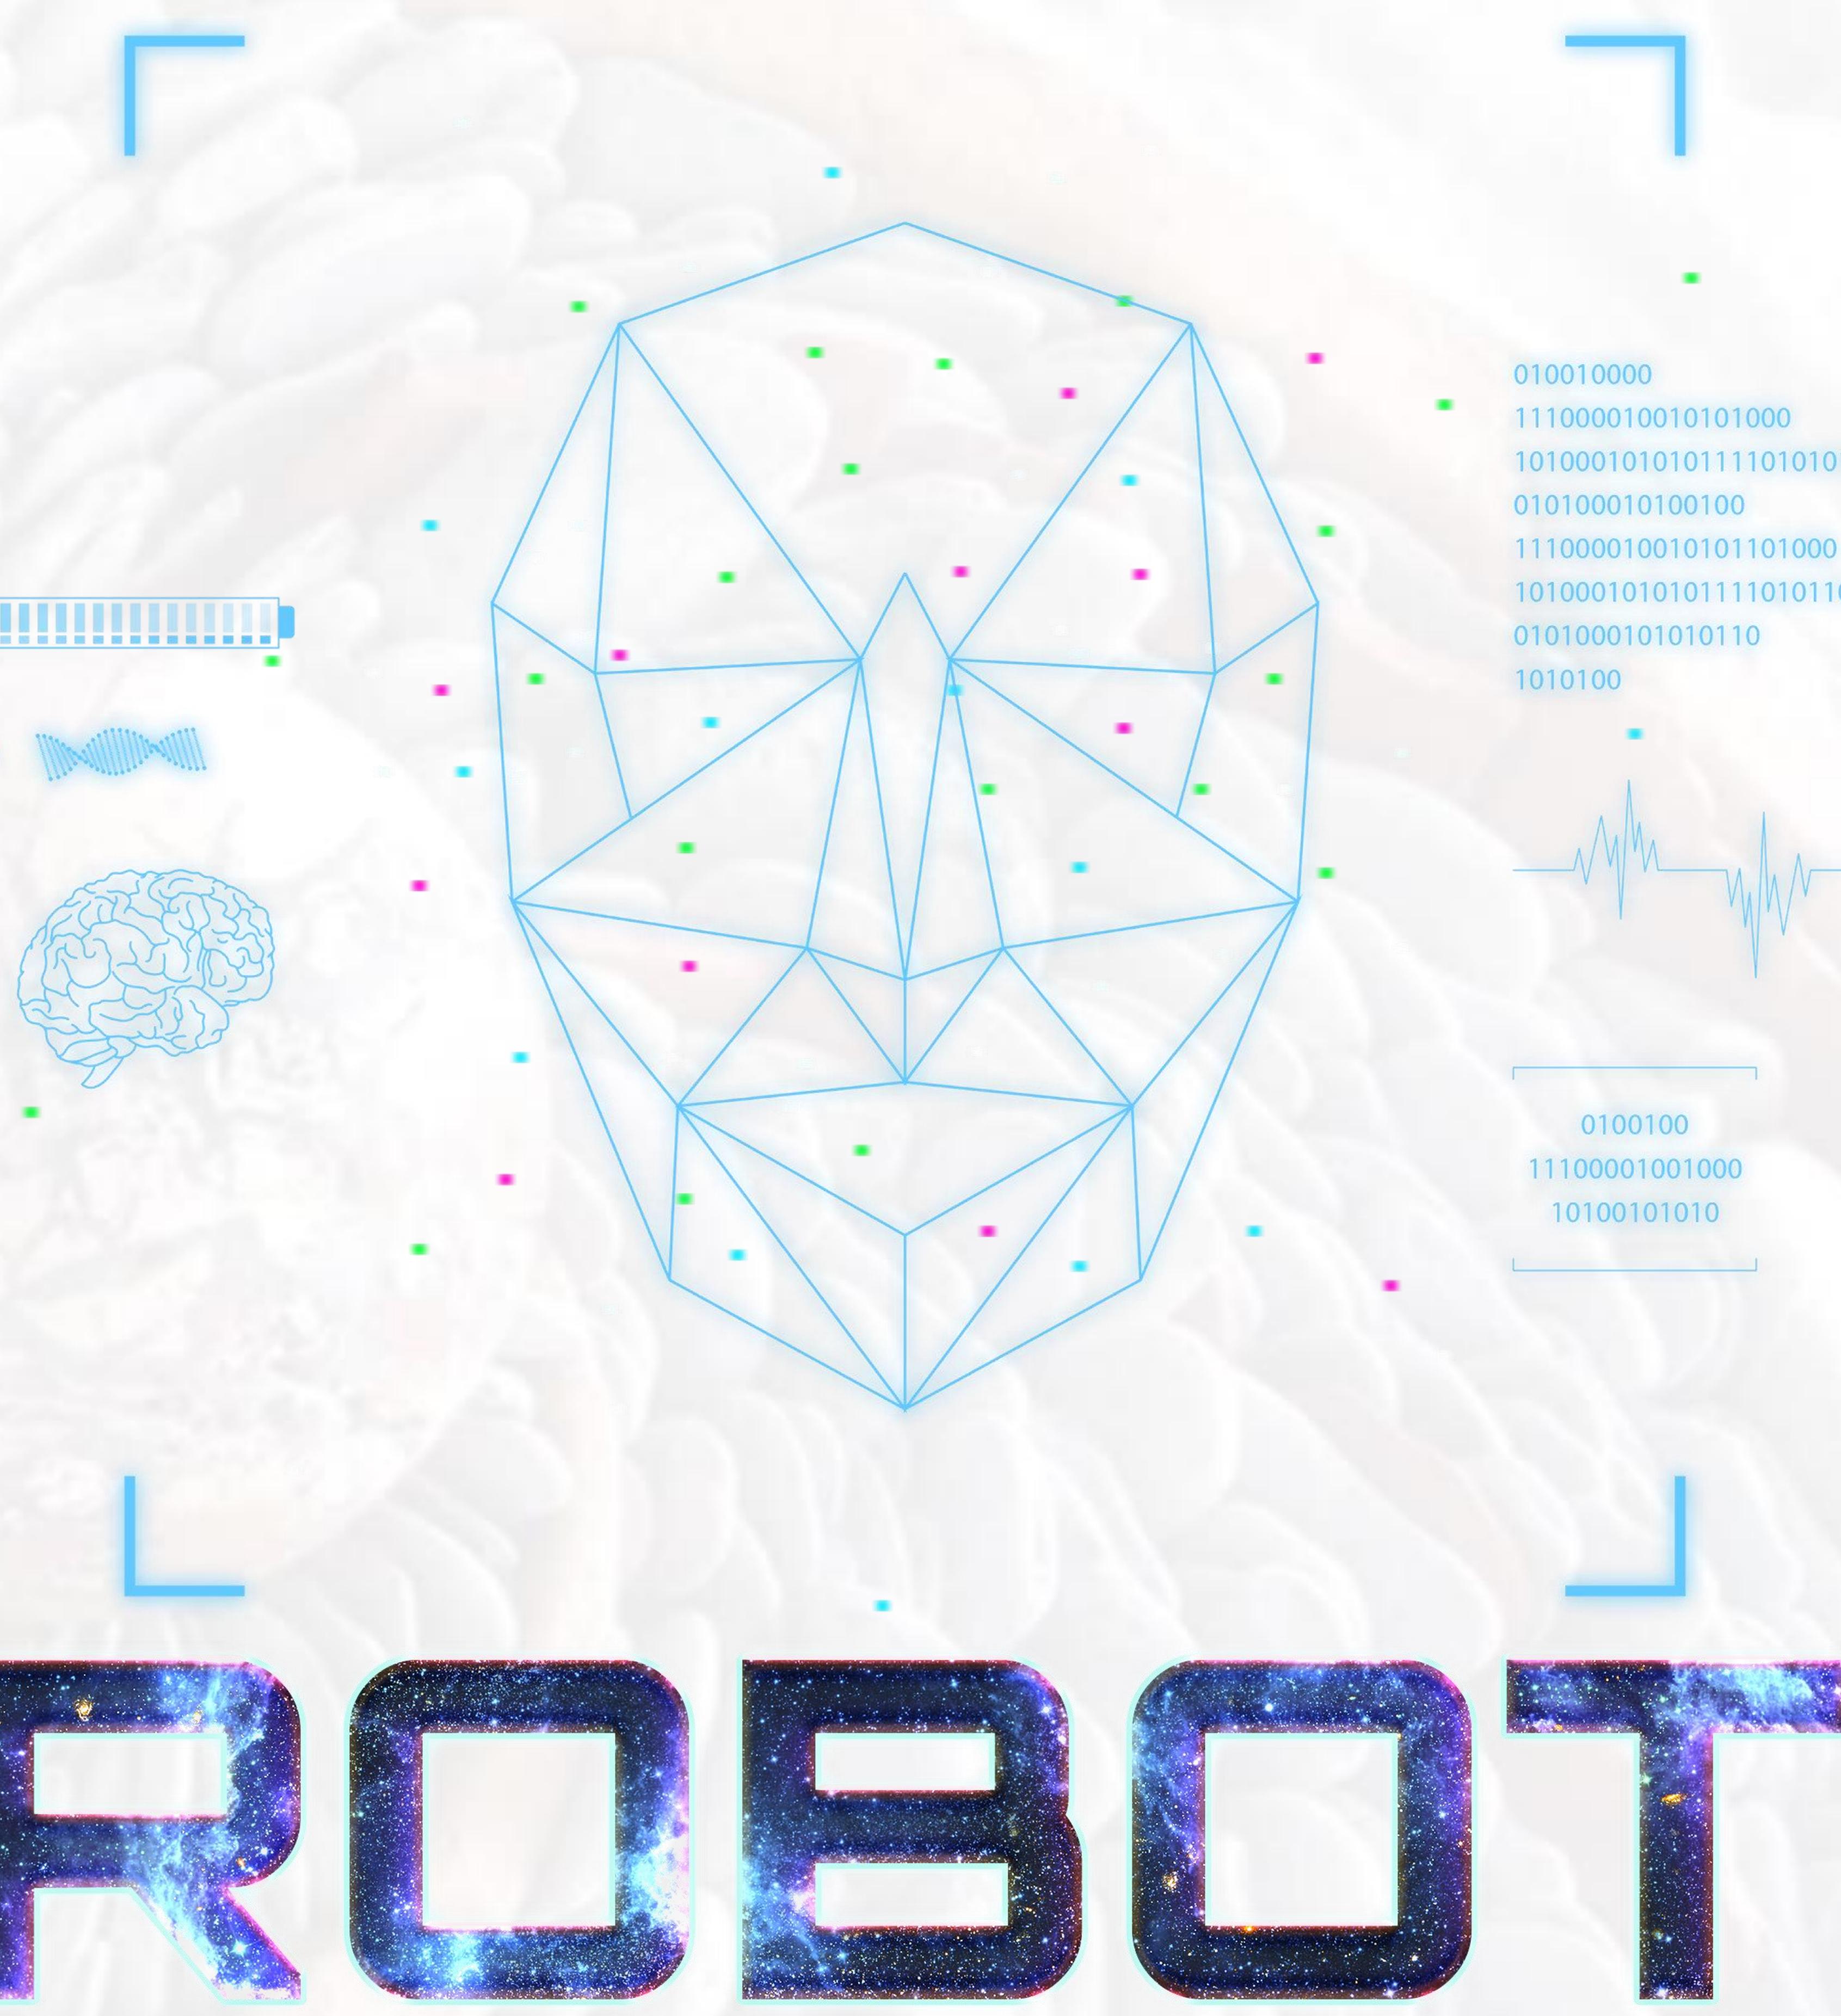

99. Robots and androids under the leadership and control of a few men and women, but who technical perform only monitoring and control tasks.

// Plejaren Contact Report // ____

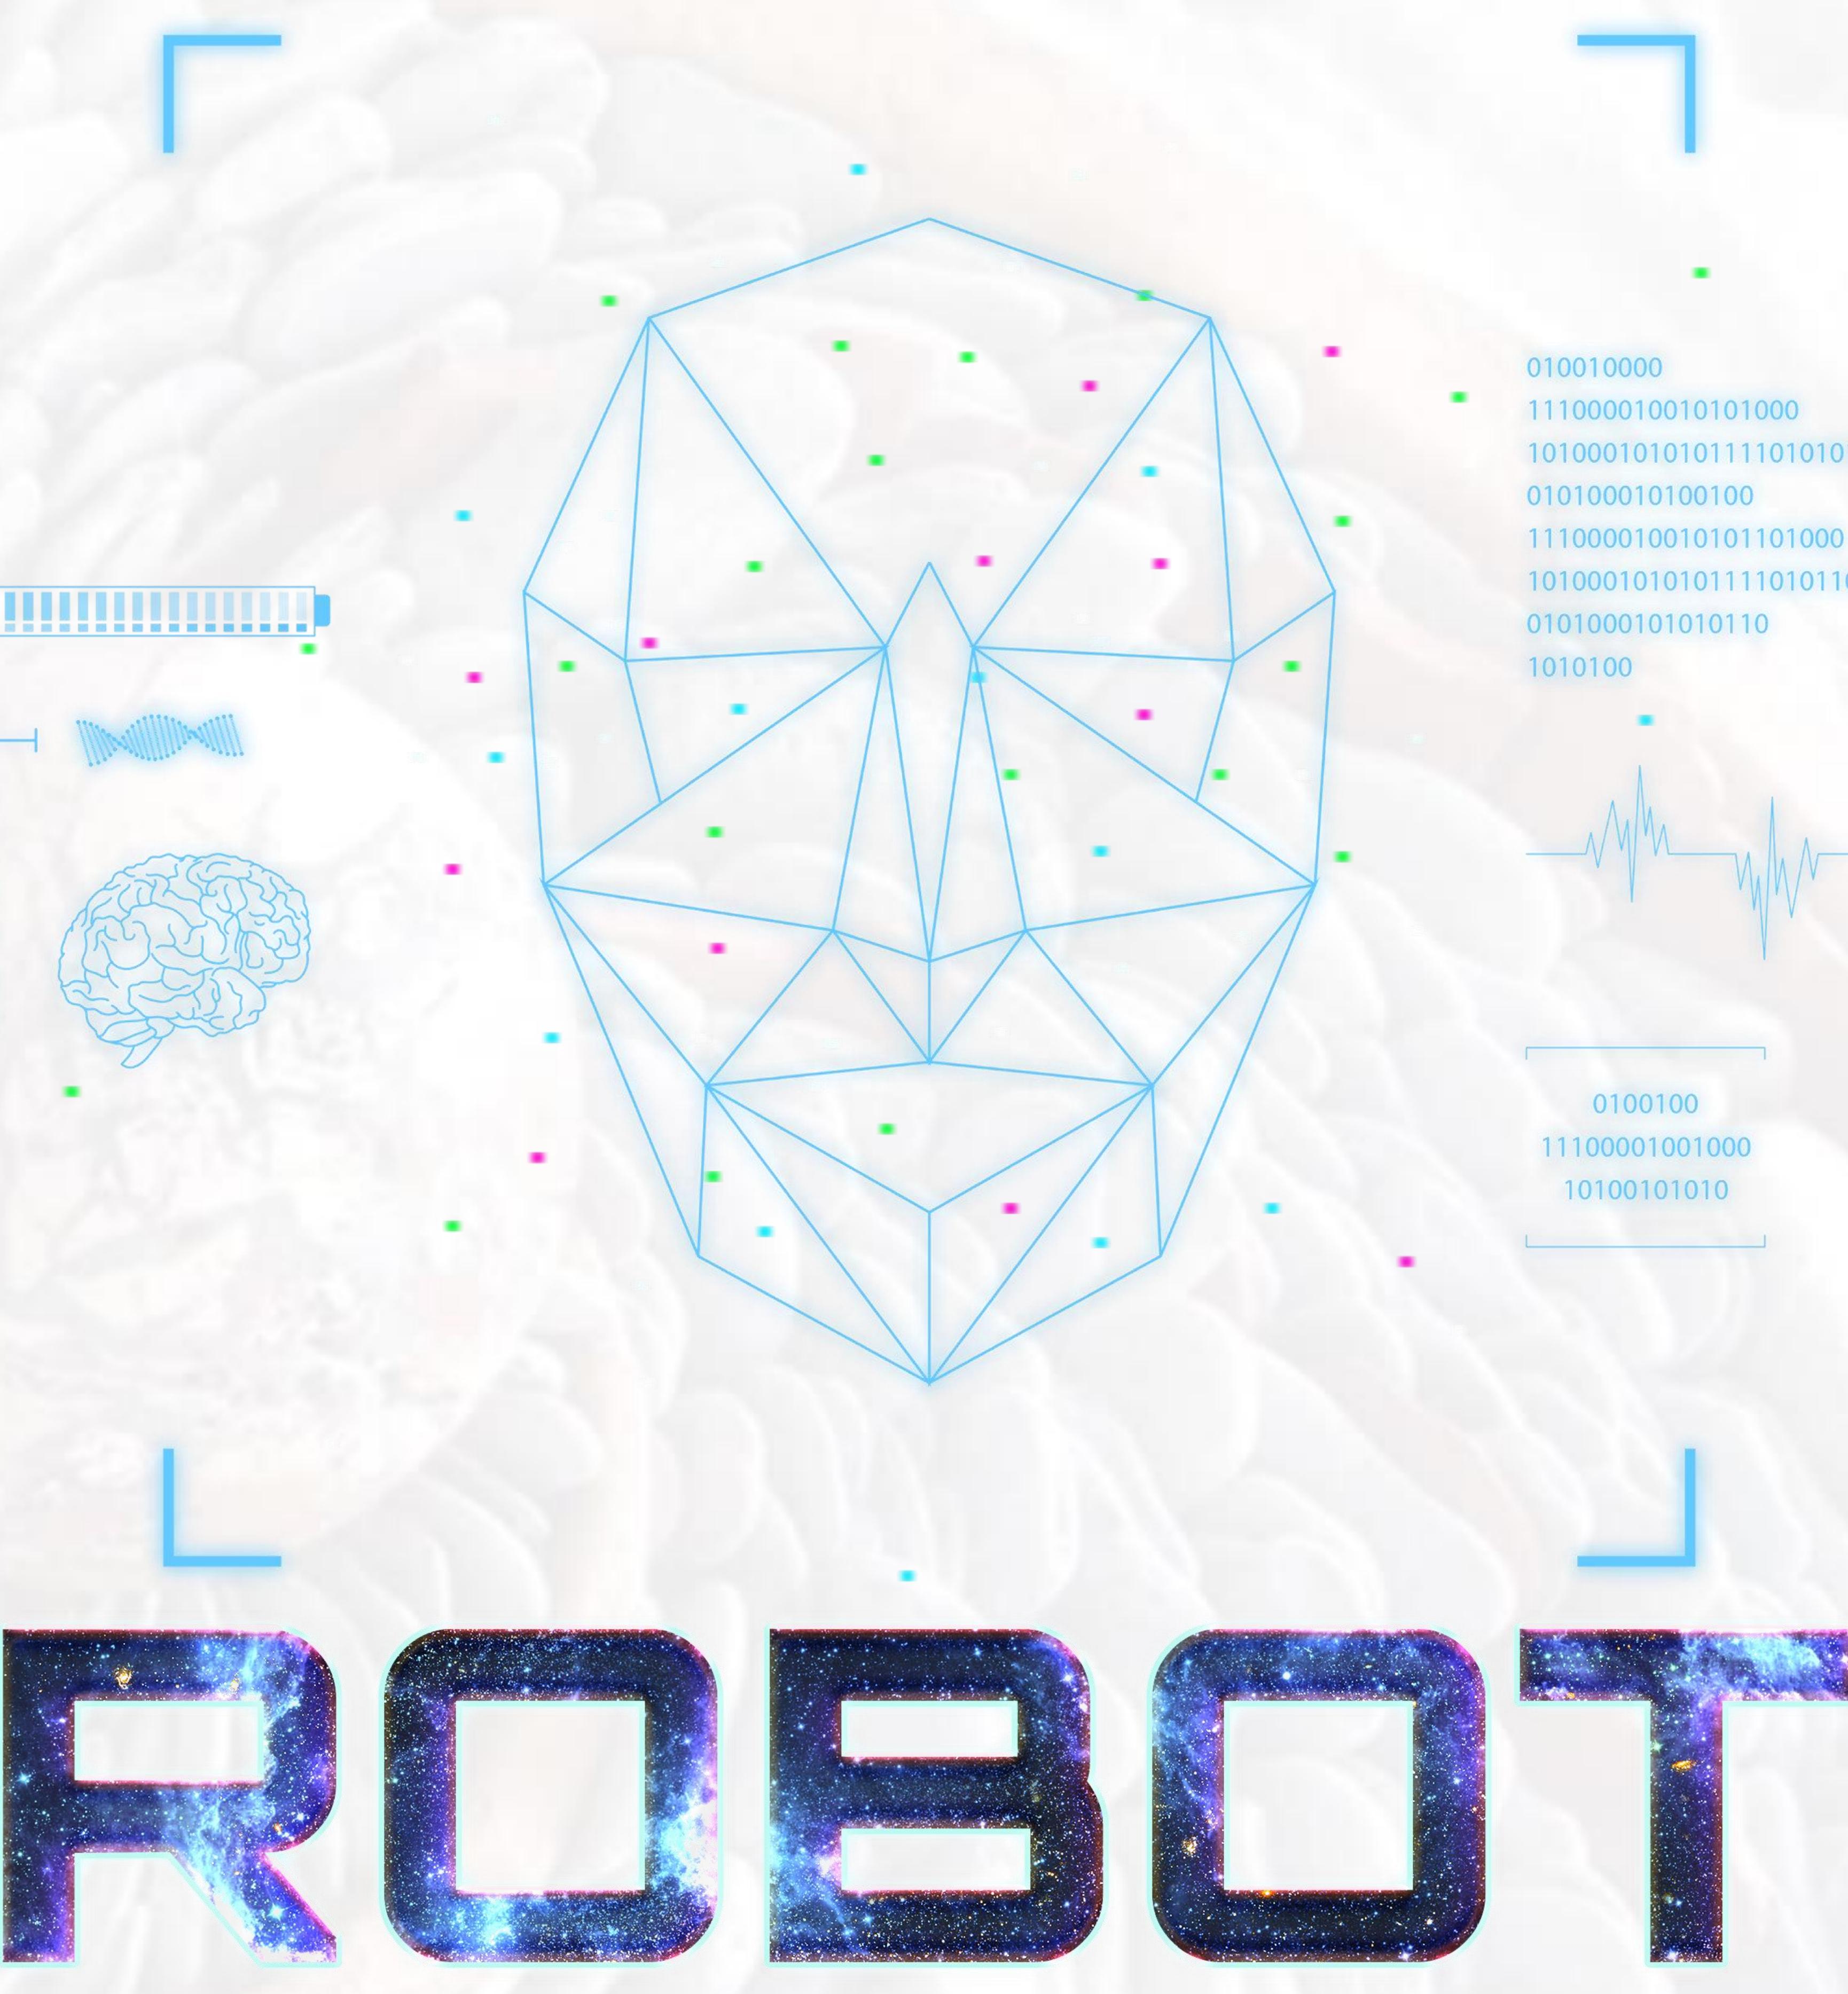

• Plejaren's factory work is mainly done by robots and androids.

Robots and androids in a Plejaren factory do work autonomously, but essentially execute task orders under the leadership and control of human beings.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

how many people live in such a splendid home, which almost seems like a paradise, if I can imagine it so?

Semjase

103. There are never more than five persons, two parents maximum of three and a children, three because offspring is the limit, which is why we do not suffer from an overpopulation problem like the Earth-humans.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier Then you have also solved the problem with your mother-inlaw.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

Fantastic.

I would put up with that, too.

The size of Plejaren's family, and what they call their mother-in-law.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier I think I will move my residence to your Pleiades.

Semjase

I do not understand the 104.problem with the mother-in-law; what do you call that?

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

That's the spouse's mother.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

With us these mothers-in-laws do not have exactly a halo on the head, because they often interfere in the child rearing affairs, etc. of their children and raise a ruckus.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

However, this is not the rule, it must be said for the sake of the good and dear mothers-in-laws, because I know several such patented women.

'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier

can not sing Unfortunately, any hymns of praise because of my mother-in-law, because she is a true hyena and the embodiment of the devil's grandmother herself.

... Do you also know music, literature and art and do you have appropriate schools?

Semjase

109. Sure, these things are common to all human life forms in the universe.

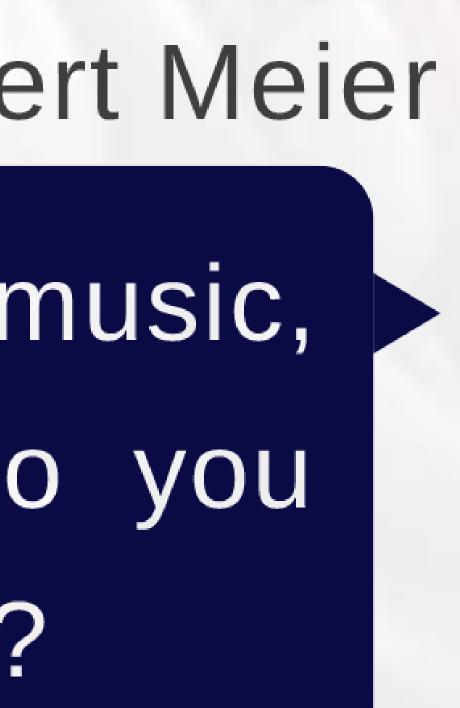

Semjase

110. We also have appropriate schools for these things, but they can only be attended by really talented people who will later work in these things for the benefit of all.

• In the Plejaren world, only truly talented people work in the field of art.

Plejaren philosophy of education in areas such as music, literature and the arts is based purely on individual talent and the benefit of all, rather than commercial interests, which is quite different from the situation on Earth.

Semjase

111. The interested parties are according judged the to presence of talent and admitted to the schools, so only real talents are admitted.
