

Outward Flow

“Let me give you a new command: Love one another. In the same way I loved you, you love one another. This is how everyone will recognize that you are my disciples—when they see the love you have for each other” (John 13:34-35, The Message).

Your love for God flows outward into your daily life touching those around you. This consists of various works, service, labor, ministry, and leisure activities. You must have a genuine love for God before you can effectively love others.

The condition of your relationship impacts all you do, and your relationship with Him plays a pivotal role in your daily life. God desires for you to stay close to Him at all times.

It is your private time alone with God in His Word, that nourishes the inner world of your spiritual life, which in turn governs your outer world and activities. Loving others is your most powerful for reaching them.

Ask Him to help you love in the same way that He loves you. Ask Him to point out those around you that need an encounter with His love. You might be surprised when He asks you to help reach those who especially difficult to love.

The love of God is the only thing in this life that matters!

Rev. Dr. Gina Cobb