

Are proud to present an illustrated Zoom Lecture on

“The Wedjat Eye: what it tells us about wellbeing, maths, the cosmos and Egypt”

Date: Saturday, June 12th 2.00 pm

The lecture lasts approximately 2 hours including a break.

Speaker: Penny Wilson: Associate Professor at Durham University

Location: Zoom Meeting

Admission: Free to Members, Day-Visitor £5 Via Eventbrite

Topic: The Wedjat Eye: what it tells us about wellbeing, maths, the cosmos and Egypt

The wedjat eye is a common Egyptian symbol for wellbeing and protection.

This talk investigates its deeper connections with Osiris, with offerings, the construction of the Cosmos and also mathematics and the inundation.

The 'eye' seems to represent an idea of a philosophy of totality (minus a piece)- but how far is that a Western reading of the meaning of the wedjat eye or can its many functions be traced in Egyptian representations and texts.

Please see our website www.egyptology-ssae.org for further details.

Email us at egyptologyssae@gmail.com

Or give us a call on 07543296698