The greatest challenge are the different beliefs we all have. I don't want my young elementary school kids to read stories about 2 moms, learn about transsexuals, or go to Women Rights Rallies. I don't think it's age appropriate. This committee may think totally different. I'm allowed to believe in a child's right to live and you may believe in Abortion. We can agree to disagree on all of this. We've had Madeira friends on both sides for years. We cannot force ideas on each other.

I know the Stefford culture of superficial perfection permeates the town and it is hard to find "real" people as much of Madeira seems to be high school clique-y (certainly not all). I also feel like families w/ 2 working parents are judged for not achieving the apparent perfection that seems so common in this town.

 Have realized there is a lot of hidden racism. Ten years ago when Griewe wanted to build apartments, many people were fearful it could turn into Section 8 housing. Meaning - black and poor people. There were racial incidents at the high school (10-15 years ago) regarding biracial teacher and opposing sports teams. Black families shared they felt it too.
