

Who was Wilbert B. Smith?

Contact Reports that mention Smith

Contact Report readers may have noticed that in CR 038 (1975) Semjase gives Billy a list of more than 100 genuine contactees. Number 135 on this list was “Wilbert B. Smith, Canada.”

Thirty-eight years later in CR 563 (2013), Ptaah is asked by Billy if Smith, author of a book called “The New Science” had been a Plejaren contact.

Ptaah’s lengthy reply said that they had just completed a “very laborious” “major worldwide mission” lasting “more than seven months” using new Sonaeren technology to re-analyze the memories of everyone still alive that had been identified in 1975 as “genuine contact persons”. This new technology allowed them to discover which of the previously identified genuine contactees had actually been hypnotic impulse contacts of Ashtar Sheran, whose memory blocks had gone undetected by the Plejaren.

Ptaah said that they were not “immune from mistakes” and very much regretted being misled earlier. He said that their recently concluded investigation had determined the “actual reality and truth”. Smith had been a one-time hypnotic contact of Ashtar Sheran, “unfortunately one of the negative kind” as part of Ashtar Sheran’s plans “of becoming a ruling power on Earth” by acting as “a kind of saviour for the Earth’s population, against various ‘evil’ alien invaders”... Recipients of Ashtar Sheran’s impulses had their memories “so profoundly hypnotically and suggestively manipulated” that they “thought they had experienced contact, which is why they took notes, wrote books and also made public statements”.

The Plejaren investigation was launched after receiving a tip from Asket. When her people had destroyed Ashtar Sheran in the DAL universe in 1983 they had taken 4 prisoners. In late 2012, the prisoners finally ended their 29-year silence and confessed to “many evil machinations”, including hypnotic contacts with earth humans.

Wilbert Brockhouse Smith

Smith was not a genuine Plejaren contactee however why would he have been selected as a hypnotic-impulse contact of Ashtar Sheran? Who was Smith?

Smith was a Canadian government scientist. Born 1910 in Lethbridge, Smith graduated from U.B.C. in 1934 with an M.Sc. in electrical engineering. Until 1939 he worked as Chief Engineer for a Vancouver radio station and then he joined the federal Department of Transport, that was responsible for all telecommunications in Canada.

Radio was still in its infancy at that time. Smith’ initial DOT work involved helping to develop Canada’s wartime radio signal monitoring systems. He researched radio wave propagation, ground wave conductivities and sky-wave propagations, and worked on frequency and power standards to maximize signal clarity and minimize interference, including antenna specifications.

In 1947 Smith was responsible for establishing Canada’s far north atmospheric monitoring system and had become interested in atmospheric effects, auroras and cosmic radiation. He believed that the earth’s geo-magnetic field was a potential source of energy.

In 1949 and 1950 Smith was Canada's chief delegate to the North American Regional Broadcasting Conferences, which included the U.S., Canada, Mexico, Cuba, the Dominican Republic and Haiti. Separate NARBA agreements governed the technical standards for AM and FM broadcasting and later for television.

At the 1950 NARBA conference in Washington, D.C. Smith learned from U.S. physicist Dr. Robert Sarbacher that the U.S. believed flying saucers were real, a small group led by Dr. Vannevar Bush was investigating them and that saucer information was more highly classified than that of the hydrogen bomb.

According to Smith's wife, he had been an "extreme" skeptic about flying saucers even as many saucer sightings were reported around the world and articles and books were being written about them. If the saucers were real, Smith wondered what physical principles were involved in their propulsion and maneuvers.

On his return from the conference Smith wrote a departmental memo about what he had learned from Sarbacher and attached a geo-magnetic research proposal. This memo, dated November 21, 1950, became known as the "Top Secret" memo and wasn't downgraded to Confidential until 1969.

In late 1950, on the basis of Smith's memo, the DOT approved an unfunded but classified project, headed by Smith, called Project Magnet. This permitted the use of DOT equipment and facilities to investigate Canadian UFO sightings to "prove or disprove the existence of Flying Saucers" and to investigate magnetic propulsion. Also involved were Dr. James Watt, a theoretical physicist, John Thompson, a DOT technical expert, Prof. J.T. Wilson, U of T and Dr. G.D. Garland, a Dominion Observatory gravitation expert.

All saucer sightings were referred to Project Magnet and their investigative results were passed on to the Defence Research Board (DRB) which managed the engineers and scientists involved in Canada's defence programs.

In 1952, the DRB approved Project Second Storey, an official program that represented various government departments, to investigate the UFO issue, likely because Project Magnet officially did not exist.

In 1953, an Ottawa Journal newspaper article disclosed that a flying saucer sighting station, the first in the world, was being built at Shirley's Bay, just outside of Ottawa, and that various equipment was being installed there under Smith's management. The state-of-the-art equipment at this site included a magnetometer, gamma-ray detector, radio receiver, gravity meter and recording equipment.<sup>1</sup>

In 1954, Canada secretly set aside a top secret 1,000 square mile UFO landing area in Alberta so alien craft could land there without being shot down by fighter jets.<sup>2</sup>

In August, 1954, Shirley's Bay detected a significant anomaly and reporters noticed many people rushing to get to the site, forcing the DOT to admit that UFO work had secretly been ongoing since 1950. Project Magnet was officially halted in October 1954, likely merged into Project Second Storey. Smith's research and investigations continued.

In 1956, Smith founded the Ottawa Flying Saucer Club, later called the Ottawa New Sciences Club; there were many such clubs across Canada and around the world. From 1960-1971 the Ottawa club published 35 issues of a journal called Topside.<sup>3</sup>

In 1957, Smith was appointed Superintendent, Radio Regulations Engineering, Telecommunications Division, DOT. In 1959, Smith claimed research had shown that gravity could be created and controlled and was working on an anti-gravity device. Smith was diagnosed with cancer in spring 1962 and died just prior to year-end.

In 1963, Smith was posthumously awarded the Keith S. Rogers Memorial Engineering Award for dedicated service in the advancement of technical standards in Canadian Broadcasting. In 1964, a compilation of Smith's unfinished manuscripts was published by his family as "The New Science". "The Boys from Topside" was published in 1969.

Canadian flying saucers?

Various contact reports (065, 367, 519) mention flying saucers in countries that include Canada. In the mid-1950s a Canadian company, A.V. Roe Canada Limited (Avro), was working under contract to build a flying saucer for the U.S. government. The saucer was referred to as the Avro disc or Avrocar.<sup>4</sup> This project was discontinued around 1960. Avro had also been developing what was arguably the most advanced fighter aircraft of its time, which the Diefenbaker government abruptly cancelled in 1959 after about half a dozen prototypes had been built and before a scheduled pre-production project review.

What Smith apparently 'learned' from ETs

Smith claimed multiple telepathic contacts with ET UFO occupants and communication with others that had similar contacts, such as U.S. scientist Dr. Daniel Fry. Smith called ETs the "space people", "space brothers" and the "boys from topside". (topside is a nautical term)

The ETs told Smith that: the speed of light was not constant; time is a field that can be changed and controlled; UFO's support themselves on earth's gravitational field; we are responsible for our own welfare and cosmic law prevents them from interfering with our evolution; telepathy is a universal language; UFOs fly by controlling gravity and time which creates vortices of reduced molecular binding which can, and has, caused earth chase aircraft to come apart, and that we unknowingly create such regions ourselves; our nuclear explosions cause harm at source and on the opposite side of earth, and elsewhere. The above points are generally consistent with information in the contact reports.

Some quotes from Smith

"I think that these people from elsewhere are concerned with our playing with atomic energy, and about our plans for space travel and interplanetary exploration and conquest. I am sure that they do not hold us in very high esteem, and are worried about what we might do if we ever got loose in space armed to the teeth with nuclear weapons."<sup>5</sup>

“The technology of these people from elsewhere is quite a bit ahead of ours, and they have an understanding of the realities of the universe that we are just approaching.”<sup>4</sup>

“...these people come from everywhere, there is no place in the universe were men can live that he does not live.”<sup>4</sup>

“I make no attempt to ‘prove’ anything, and have no intention of doing so. It is up to each and every one to search out the truth and decide for themselves just what is the truth. Truth needs no justification, it stands alone.”

“...they can changes direction quickly; all this with utter disregard of the laws of inertia, as we understand them.”<sup>4</sup>

“It is my opinion that the people from outside are so much like us that they could mingle with us and we would be none the wiser.”<sup>6</sup>

“All human beings have descended from people who once populated planets other than the earth.”<sup>7</sup>

The above quotes are also consistent with contact report information.

Gravitational fields

In CR 643 (2016), responding to a question from Billy about gravity, Ptaah said he no longer personally followed the discoveries of earth scientists but believed that they had yet to discover gravitational waves. (CR 643/119-122) Wikipedia shows that the first detection of gravitational waves by earth scientists occurred in September 2015 at two U.S. laser interferometer gravitational wave observatories.

Conclusions

1. Smith was led to believe that he’d had multiple contacts with ETs.
2. Much of what Smith learned from his hypnotic contact with Ashtar Sheran is consistent with contact report information.
3. It’s unclear how Ashtar Sheran’s hypnotic-impulse contact with Smith fit into their plan to gain control over earth humanity.
