

More vs. Less

In this world of
more or less,
we should have
less of more
and more of less.

For, we are
accumulating more,
but enjoying it less.

We are craving for
more,
but experiencing
less.

We possess more
and are attached to it;
we should have less
and be detached from it.

We have more,
and it controls us;
we should have less
and feel free.

We desire more
and are never satisfied;
we should seek less
and that will be enough.

We pile things up
to exist with more;
we should scale things down
to live with less.

What, then, are possessions for?

The Bauhaus aesthetic
is the word prophetic:

Less is More!

© Msgr. Walter Niebrzydowski

November 2, 1986

Fr-Walter@nyc.rr.com

www.fatherwaltersparish.org