

BOSTON Herald

Carves out Spots for Marine Park Sculptures

By Jerry Kronenberg
Thursday, April 14, 2011

City officials are trying to make South Boston's Marine Industrial Park look a little less, well, industrial.

Three New England artists have won a $10,000 contest to create outdoor sculptures at the municipally owned site, which officials hope to redevelop into high-tech office space.

-A pair of Lobster Claws by Craig Gray of Hiram, ME one of the Sculptures to be installed: (Courtesy photo provided)